Hanoi's Interest In Laos Mostly Political

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The continuing North Vietnamese offensive in Laos raises important questions about Hanoi's aims, because the situation in the strange little "Land of a Million Elephants" is beginning to look as bad as at any time in the past nine years.

Few who are familiar with the situation say North Vietnam wants to take over Laos through total military conquest. Then why the heavy investment, particularly in view of the strain on Hanoi's resources in the main theater of war, South Vietnam?

The answer may be that this is another step in a Hanoi plan to bring about the fall of Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist premier in Vientiane. Such a development could produce a dilemma for the United States.

The main purpose of the North Vietnamese in Laos, estimated to number 35,000 combat and 15,000 support troops, seems obvious: to protect the Ho Chi Minh trail, Hanoi's jungled supply route to South Vietnam, now subject to constant bombing by U.S. airmen. That bombing is being carried on with Souvanna's consent because of the presence of the North Vietnamese troops on Lao soil.

Souvanna's position is precarious in any case. He is recognized by the Soviet Union and the United States and probably needs some sort of tacit agreement between the two big powers to retain his position.

The Laos war is different from the one in South Vietnam. It's a war for real estate rather than for people, a war being fought with an eye to position, against the day when Vietnam is settled one way or another.

In Laos, the framework remains of a three-sided government—rightist, neutralist and Communist—as provided in the 1962 Geneva accords under which the nation was supposed to be neutral and independent. It exists now only in theory. The Communists long since deserted it.

But North Vietnam has waited in the wings a candidate for Souvanna's position in the person of Col. Deuane, titular leader of what he calls the "patriotic neutralists." He defected to the Pathet Lao some years ago.

The American dilemma could be developing in this way:

Soviet interests in Laos appear to turn on countering the Red Chinese as much as on thwarting the Americans.

The Russians are strongly entrenched in the Pathet Lao province of Phongsavan in the north, and Moscow sees Laos as a key to influence in Southeast Asia.

The Russians thus might find it advantageous to attempt to get rid of both the Americans and Chinese by pulling the rug from under Souvanna, leaving in his place a Pathet Lao "neutralist" figurehead backed by a Moscow-supported North Vietnamese presence. This would, at the same time, erase the legality of U.S. bombing of the Ho Chi Minh trail by removing the consent of the Vientiane government.

The United States, already involved in debate about the extent of its involvement in Laos, then might have the choice of escalating that involvement or standing aside and watching a new process of political infiltration leading not to overt conquest but to practical control of Lao territory.

Men on the scene in Laos say the North Vietnamese could, if they wanted to invest a few crack divisions, conquer all Laos without too much difficulty.

President Sees Major Win On Big Welfare Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appears headed for a major victory in the House as the powerful Ways and Means Committee drives to clear a bill closely paralleling the administration's sweeping and expensive welfare reform proposals.

The committee, once considered a major roadblock to the legislation, worked today to complete action on the proposal and send it to the floor, where its chances for passage are rated good.

Committee chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., indicated to newsmen he had decided not to block approval of the proposal in committee, buoying the administration's hopes of House passage.

President Nixon's hopes obviously were raised. He told the National Governors' Conference Wednesday the prospects for passage had improved and vigorous support from the governors "might put it over the top."

Meantime, a panel of the National Governors' Conference headed by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller set a meeting with Mills to discuss the welfare proposals. Rockefeller said he is seeking a revised bill so that the federal government would assume the total cost of the program.

Some Democratic members are in sympathy with the principle Nixon adopted that families, including those with a working member, should be assured a subsistence income.

Others reportedly have decided that since no other revision of the present system is in sight, the intentions of the administration and Republicans in Congress should be tested by putting the Nixon proposal to a vote.

It was understood the bill nearing completion will contain Nixon's proposal for a federally-financed family support level of $1,600—which could be augmented by food stamps.

Above the $1,600 level states could provide more support, with the federal government chipping in 30 per cent, up to the $3,600 poverty level. This formula was agreed on, sources reported, in lieu of a more complicated one proposed by the administration.

The measure is designed to encourage welfare recipients to work by permitting them to retain a substantial portion of their earnings without welfare payment reduction, and by requiring job training and registration of able bodied adults, not required to care for preschool children.

Drafting of the bill and preparation of a report could take another week after committee approval, pointing to a House vote about mid-March.

District Census Office Opens In Chillicothe

The 1970 Census district office in Chillicothe was officially opened Wednesday. Census of population and housing for the Pickaway County area and 10 other counties will be directed from the Chillicothe office.

Other counties in the district are Adams, Brown, Champaign, Clinton, Fayette, Highland, Madison, Pike, Ross and Scioto.

Attending opening ceremonies Wednesday were Chillicothe Mayor Ralph Heilman Sr.; Joseph N. Hoyt, manager of the district office; Dr. James Robinson of Ross County Planning Commission; Chamber of Commerce representatives; Rev. William Ricks of Ross County Community Action Commission; and county field supervisors including L. D. Varble, 526 Northridge Road, representing Pickaway County.

With the official opening today, the active phase of the census gets under way in this census district. About 26 crew Larry Parks, Route 1, Ashville, who received a kidney in a transplant operation performed one week ago, remains in satisfactory condition in University Hospital, Columbus.

Armed Men Rob Montreal Bank

TORONTO (AP) — Three armed men held up a midtown branch of the Bank of Montreal Wednesday, escaping with $52,255 in cash and $6.7 million in checks and securities, police said.

The robbery occurred shortly after an armored Brinks truck delivered two large canvas bags filled with checks and cash.

Police said the checks would be worthless unless signed by forgers, who would have to copy signatures and bank account numbers.

Roundtown

CHILLING winds blew into the area Wednesday sending the mercury to an unpredictable and biting cold eight degrees. Thursday's sunny skies will be replaced by clouds and snow flurries by night. And below freezing temperatures will remain, noted the local weather observer.

THE PUBLIC hearing for the proposed rezoning of Circleville is 8 p.m. Tuesday. The new zoning regulations are very complete, but undoubtedly will not appeal to everybody in the city.

The zoning map and a copy of the regulations can be seen at the city auditor's office. The hearing is scheduled so city council can find out what the feelings of the citizens are on the new regulations.

The planning and zoning commission has spent a great deal of time on the regulations. Tuesday is the time to air approval or disapproval of the regulations.

Not after it becomes the law of the city.

Viet Red Strength Drops

Pentagon Officials Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong strength is going down in South Vietnam as infiltration lags behind enemy losses, Pentagon officials said.

Meanwhile, they report, the enemy is streamlining its fighting forces to carry out small unit attacks on a wider and more efficient scale.

These points stand out in war situation assessments given Congress in recent days by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

At the same time, Laird and Wheeler—back from a recent on-the-spot survey in Vietnam—report a steep rise in the enemy's movement of supplies into South Vietnam along the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Laird, testifying before the House defense appropriations subcommittee, said Wednesday over-all North Vietnamese-Viet Cong forces have declined in recent months.

"From information currently available, it appears the enemy's force level will continue to decline, at least through the foreseeable future," he said.

The defense secretary added that North Vietnamese infiltration "is not expected to keep up with enemy losses, including combat casualties and defections."

Laird gave no figures, but the most recent Pentagon report on enemy strength said there were about 240,000 North Vietnamese

Believe U.S. Commitment At High Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an angry attack against the American role in Laos, a bipartisan group of senators has demanded the administration disclose how heavily the United States is involved in the war-torn Asian nation.

"The facts of our involvement have been concealed from the American people," Tennessee Democrat Albert Gore declared during floor debate Wednesday, a charge supported by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.

Another Republican, Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland, said "Laos has become an arena for the repetition of the mistakes of our Vietnamese involvement."

"I believe that the American people—and the Congress—will not ultimately accept a withdrawal policy (from Vietnam) that entails merely a changing of uniforms and titles and re-engagement in Laos."

The Maryland senator pointed to "news reports from usually reliable publications" indicating hundreds of former Green Berets military advisers "swarming over the country in numbers proportionately larger than the Kennedy administration commitment of advisers" in Vietnam.

The debate, conducted before only a handful of senators, came against a backdrop of a strong North Vietnamese force that has moved quickly and with great success against the Royal Lao army in spite of heavy bombings by U.S. B52s.

So far the North Vietnamese have captured the strategic Plain of Jars and the nearby important airstrip and town of Muong Soui.

The fear that the American fighting role in Vietnam is fast spreading to neighboring Laos threatened through many of the arguments made on the floor Wednesday.

Both Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Kentucky Republican John Sherman Cooper made this point, with Mansfield stating that if U.S. involvement in Laos grows "all the plans for Vietnamization will go down the drain and we will find ourselves in a most difficult situation."

Pointing to President Nixon's peace efforts in Vietnam, Cooper said "I do not see how we can get out of that situation by becoming involved in another war."

So far, the administration has refused to disclose how many Americans are serving in Laos, the rate on American air missions in that country or the U.S. casualty rate.

President Nixon has denied any U.S. ground combat forces are in Laos, although he has said American planes have raided the Ho Chi Minh Trail where it runs through that country.

Beyond that disclosure, Nixon said in a December news conference, "I do not think the public interest would be served by any further discussions."

Service Station Attendant Slain

CINCINNATI (AP) — A young attendant was fatally wounded here today during a robbery at a service station in the Clifton section of Cincinnati.

James Tewart, 23, was found dead in a storage area of the Standard Oil Co. station by a customer at 3:20 a.m. Tewart was last seen alive about 2:30 a.m. He had been shot in the back of the head.

Nearly $40 was missing from the station which has been a target of robberies in the past, police said.

A wave of attendant-slayings hit the Southwestern Ohio area early in 1969.

Conservation Meet Has 6 Workshops

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Conservation Association's first statewide environmental conference here Thursday featured six workshops staffed by experts in each environmental field.

Speakers included Thomas L. Kimball, executive director of the National Wildlife Foundation; Boyd S. Gibbons, deputy director of the Department of Interior; and Fred E. Morr, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Philadelphia Bank Lowers Interest; No Others Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Spokesmen for big banks generally doubt that the cut in the prime interest rate from 8½ per cent to 8 per cent by Philadelphia's Little National Bank is likely to spread soon.

But stock market investors grabbed Wednesday at the news—half an hour before the close—as an indication that tight money policies might be ready for a change. A flood of trading sent the Dow Jones industrial average rocketing to a 13.86 point gain, closing at 768.28.

The prolonged stock market slump has widely been blamed on tight money and credit policies instigated by the Federal Reserve Board to fight inflation and cool the economy.

Banks have progressively increased the prime rate—the rate to their biggest customers—from 6 per cent as recently as December 1968 to the historic high of 8½ per cent.

Norman Denny, president of Lincoln National, said the bank lowered its prime rate, effective March 1, "because we don't want the economy of the Delaware Valley to suffer."

In an interview, he said the stock market reaction "shows the frustration of the investor, that he was waiting for some sign, some indication of better times."

"We felt the country was in jeopardy," Denny declared. "We thought there was a depression on the horizon. We wanted to give the businessman confidence to move forward rather than retrench."

"I don't think they'll come down at the moment," said William Butler, vice president of Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, in a typical comment.

It was Chase Manhattan that first followed Lincoln's decrease to 5½ per cent from 6 per cent in the prime rate in January 1967.

Lincoln and two other small banks in separate states lowered the rate. The nation's major banks soon followed suit.

"You can't say conditions are exactly comparable now as they were then," Denny said, but he predicted other banks would follow the move within "the next several weeks."

Ohio House Eyes FHA Interest Rate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A second attempt to exempt federal home loans from Ohio's 8 per cent interest limit is expected to go before the House next week.

The Insurance, Public Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee recommended a slightly altered version of the bill for House passage Wednesday.

Also in the House Wednesday a bill was introduced to repeal Ohio's present abortion law.

The usury bill that will now go to the floor is identical to the way it was originally introduced by Rep. Charles Fry, R-9 Springfield.

A version that had an April 1 expiration date failed on the floor Jan. 14 to get an emergency designation. It was pulled back to committee.

The bill, without an expiration date, would exempt VA and FHA loans from the usury law as long as the federal interest rate is above 8 per cent. It now is 8.5 per cent.

The Senate Wednesday passed a bill that would transfer about three acres of land from the Department of Health to Ohio University in Athens.

The Senate also passed a bill that would reduce the amount of tax settlement paid to county treasurers and auditors for late tax settlements.

Nixon Wants 57 Programs Thrown Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed to Congress today the scrapping or reform of 57 federal programs at a saving in the coming year of $2.5 billion.

In a special message, Nixon said congressional action would be required to achieve $1.1 billion of the savings and that he will do the rest through administrative moves.

The pruning operation would include reform of the 20-year-old federal program to aid to schools in areas housing large numbers of federal personnel—a program Nixon has tried without success to cut in the past.

The upshot of the Nixon plan in this field would be to shift more funds from relatively wealthy communities to poorer districts and at the same time cut total annual appropriations by $392 million.

Another item on the Nixon agenda would be elimination of a little-known board of federal tea tasters that has been in operation since 1897 and costs $1 million a year.

"At one time in the dim past," Nixon said, "there may have been good reason to single out tea for such special taste tests; but that reason no longer exists. Nevertheless, a separate tea-tasting board has gone right along, at the taxpayer's expense, because nobody up to now took the trouble to take a hard look at why it was in existence. The general attitude was it didn't cost much, it provided a few jobs, so why upset the tea cart?"

The President said such attitudes should have no place in government and the "taxpayer's dollar deserves to be treated with more respect."

Greenfield Area Soldier Is Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Ohio servicemen, Army Pfc. James H. Waulk of Route 2, Greenfield in Highland County and Marine Cpl. Thomas E. Bewley of 80 Oakleigh Drive in Brunswick, Medina County, have been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Wednesday.

U.S. Losses In Viet War Drop To 83

South Vietnamese Losses Increase For Same Period

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war dropped slightly last week, while the Saigon government's total of battlefield deaths increased by 139, and enemy casualties were 303 above those for the week before, the allied commands announced today.

The U.S. Command's weekly casualty report said 83 Americans were killed in action last week and 657 were wounded. The week before 96 dead and 589 wounded were reported.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 361 government troops were killed and 1,123 were wounded last week, compared with 222 and 710 the previous week. The allied commands claimed 2,469 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week; the week before the total was 2,166.

With the report, total official casualties in the war rose to 40,645 Americans killed in combat, 267,831 Americans wounded, 100,656 government troops killed, 225,525 wounded, and 603,783 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

South Vietnamese forces reported hard fighting in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon Wednesday and today, with 107 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in half a dozen battles. Field reports said 18 government troops were killed and 43 were wounded.

In one battle 16 miles south of Saigon, the government said local militia killed 17 Viet Cong. Forty North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were reported killed in a battle with the 21st South Vietnamese Division on the edge of the U Minh Forest, while in two other encounters enemy losses of 24 and 16 were reported.

Other South Vietnamese infantrymen sweeping south of Da Nang uncovered a North Vietnamese field hospital for 800 patients, the third such find in a week. According to captured records, 1,500 enemy soldiers died in the hospital in 1968 and 1969. 1,435 were treated there last year, and another 1,051 were sent to North Vietnam.

Make Pay Offer To Safety Forces

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An across-the-board pay increase of about $800 annually for police and firemen has been offered by city negotiators, it was announced here Wednesday.

Police representatives said they would recommend that members accept the offer, and officials of the firemen's organization said a special membership meeting would be held to consider the proposal.

Under the new proposal beginning policemen and firemen, now receiving $7,436, would move up to $9,048 after four years of service.

See Accord On Phone Rate Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Agreements reportedly reached between representatives of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and cities which have been opposing rate hikes now call for increases ranging from 95 cents to $1.30.

These recommendations are being readied for presentation to the Ohio Utilities Commission for approval Friday. Representatives of seven cities and 11 other intervenors in the rate application agreed to new proposals Wednesday.

Ohio Bell had scaled down its increase request from an original $80 million annually to $55 million with the understanding that cities would drop their opposition to the lower rate request. After that it began negotiating with cities on local rates.

Approval of the agreements would bring an end to hearings in the case. The commission is expected to study the agreements and can then accept or reject them.

Under the latest proposals residential phone bills in Cleveland would be increased 95 cents per month to $6.95-45 cents lower than originally proposed. For Columbus residential users, the increase would be $1.30 a month to $6.80, against an original proposed increase of $1.85 monthly.

The new rate schedule also proposes monthly increases of $1.10 for Akron, Dayton, Toledo, Youngstown and Canton — all down 50 cents from original proposals.

reported, in lieu of a more complicated one proposed by the administration.

The measure is designed to encourage welfare recipients to work by permitting them to retain a substantial portion of their earnings without welfare payment reduction, and by requiring job training and registration of able bodied adults, not required to care for preschool children.

Drafting of the bill and preparation of a report could take another week after committee approval, pointing to a House vote about mid-March.

District Census Office Opens In Chillicothe

The 1970 Census district office in Chillicothe was officially opened Wednesday. Census of population and housing for the Pickaway County area and 10 other counties will be directed from the Chillicothe office.

Other counties in the district are Adams, Brown, Champaign, Clinton, Fayette, Highland, Madison, Pike, Ross and Scioto.

Attending opening ceremonies Wednesday were Chillicothe Mayor Ralph Heilman Sr.; Joseph N. Hoyt, manager of the district office; Dr. James Robinson of Ross County Planning Commission; Chamber of Commerce representatives; Rev. William Ricks of Ross County Community Action Commission; and county field supervisors including L. D. Varble, 526 Northridge Road, representing Pickaway County.

With the official opening today, the active phase of the census gets under way in this census district. About 26 crew leaders and census takers will be selected and trained.

NAMES of the two to be selected from Pickaway County will be released by March 16. County population determines the number of enumerators to be used in census taking. Persons are currently being tested for these area posts.

Detailed arrangements will be made to enumerate people in institutions, jails, hospitals, colleges and places other than in homes, all in preparation for April 1 when the actual enumeration begins.

Beginning four days before April 1, mail carriers will leave census questionnaires at each residential mailbox in Circleville and Pickaway County. Each family will be asked to fill out its questionnaire and hold it for the census taker. The enumeration of the district is expected to be completed in about five weeks after the census takers begin making calls on April 1.

There are 180 other census districts throughout the country where this method of

Roundtown

CHILLING winds blew into the area Wednesday sending the mercury to an unpredicted and biting cold eight degrees. Thursday's sunny skies will be replaced by clouds and snow flurries by night. And below freezing temperatures will remain, noted the local weather observer.

THE PUBLIC hearing for the proposed rezoning of Circleville is 8 p.m. Tuesday. The new zoning regulations are very complete, but undoubtedly will not appeal to everybody in the city.

The zoning map and a copy of the regulations can be seen at the city auditor's office. The hearing is scheduled so city council can find out what the feelings of the citizens are on the new regulations.

The planning and zoning commission has spent a great deal of time on the regulations. Tuesday is the time to air approval or disapproval of the regulations. Not after it becomes the law of the city.

Armed Men Rob Montreal Bank

TORONTO (AP) — Three armed men held up a midtown branch of the Bank of Montreal Wednesday, escaping with $52,255 in cash and $6.7 million in checks and securities, police said.

The robbery occurred shortly after an armored Brinks truck delivered two large canvas bags filled with checks and cash.

Police said the checks would be worthless unless signed by forgers, who would have to copy signatures and bank account numbers.

Viet Red Strength Drops Pentagon Officials Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong strength is going down in South Vietnam as infiltration lags behind enemy losses, Pentagon officials say.

Meanwhile, they report, the enemy is streamlining its fighting forces to carry out small unit attacks on a wider and more efficient scale.

These points stand out in war situation assessments given Congress in recent days by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

At the same time, Laird and Wheeler—back from a recent on-the-spot survey in Vietnam—report a steep rise in the enemy's movement of supplies into South Vietnam along the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Laird, testifying before the House defense appropriations subcommittee, said Wednesday over-all North Vietnamese-Viet Cong forces have declined in recent months.

"From information currently available, it appears the enemy's force level will continue to decline, at least through the foreseeable future," he said.

The defense secretary added that North Vietnamese infiltration "is not expected to keep up with enemy losses, including combat casualties and defections."

Laird gave no figures, but the most recent Pentagon report on enemy strength said there were about 240,000 North Vietnamese (Continued on Page 18)

FHA Announces Loan Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced start of a conditional commitment program that will permit it to finance small subdivision-type housing developments in the nation's small towns.

Previously, the Department's Farmers Home Administration could finance the building of the new homes only on a single-unit-at-a-time basis.

In issuing instructions for the new conditional commitment program, agency Administrator James V. Smith called on housing constructors, developers, sellers and other segments of the construction industry to engage in a stepped-up program to upgrade low-and-moderate cost housing in rural communities.

"At long last we can put to work a tool that enables the Farmers Home Administration to deal effectively with the deplorable condition of rural housing," Mr. Smith said.

"Instead of building new homes on a single-unit-at-a-time basis as in the past, the conditional commitment now makes the building of a dozen modest homes in an area practical," he added.

The conditional commitment does not reserve funds for a loan nor does it provide for construction financing.

The FHA will issue a commitment on each proposed house, but will hold builders to 15 commitments at any one time. The commitment will be effective for 12 months unless extended.

The agency will require builders to submit plans, specifications, proposed selling price and other information related to proposed construction at the time of application.

The application fee for a commitment on a new house is $45 and $35 for rehabilitation of an existing house.

Administrator Smith explained that it is impossible to determine how much new construction will be started in small rural communities because of the commitment, but pointed out that the agency's housing funds for the current fiscal year stand at $821 million. It is estimated that about 80,000 housing starts will be made this year, compared to 50,000 in 1969.

He also pointed out that there is a great need for housing in rural areas where only 30 per cent of the nation's population lives but more than half of the substandard housing exists.

In 1960, Farmers Home Administration made $40 million in rural housing loans. By 1968 that figure had increased to $494 million. Last year that figure reached $512 million, which provided new or improved housing for over 57,000 rural families.

Nixon And Pompidou Talk On Middle East Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a cool congressional reception for President Georges Pompidou of France, President Nixon says he hopes talks with the French leader will bring "real progress on fundamental issues."

After discussions with Nixon today at the White House, Pompidou and his wife fly to Cape Kennedy for a tour of U.S. space shot facilities before going on to San Francisco. Other stops on his eight-day tour include Chicago and New York.

At a formal dinner put on by Pompidou at the French Embassy Wednesday night, Nixon expressed his hope the discussion "will produce result and real progress on fundamental issues that we want."

Nixon apparently referred to the Middle East situation, on which the French and Americans take differing positions, and the roles of the United States and France in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The French President said at

At a joint session of Congress earlier in the day, Pompidou was applauded one of eight times when he quoted—in English—the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower's statement that "every nation has a right to live its own life." But one congressman, Rep. Lester I. Wolff, D-N.Y., quietly walked out during the 25-minute address and perhaps a third of the senators and representatives did not attend the session.

Pompidou professed an even-handed French policy in the Middle East but did not touch on his country's sale of jet fighter planes to Libya, the reason for the boycott of his address by legislators who contended it was designed to aid the Arab side.

He said the French desire peace and feel the United States—"the most powerful nation on earth"—has the greatest responsibility to promote peace.

U.S. Expert Believes Soviets Suffered Rocket Setbacks

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A U.S. expert believes the Soviet space program has been set back by technical problems, including trouble with large rockets that could ferry men to the moon.

Dr. Charles Sheldon II said many observers feel the Soviet Union's Proton rocket was intended to boost men on a lunar orbit flight last year, and commented:

"The Cosmos 300 and 305 launchings last year have all the earmarks of unmanned lunar orbit failures."

"Both were boosted by the Proton rocket. One apparently stayed in earth orbit less than one revolution and the other left lots of debris in earth orbit."

"Why haven't they launched any men to the moon? I, for one, wouldn't want to ride on that rocket."

Sheldon is chief of the Science Policy Research Division of the Library of Congress Legislative Research Service. He spoke to a group of technical societies Wednesday night.

He said Western experts believe the Soviet Union is developing a rocket with larger booster power than America's 7.5-million-pound thrust Saturn 5—possibly with more than 12 million pounds.

"But that doesn't mean it will put up twice as much weight as the Saturn 5," he said. "There is no evidence they have perfected high energy fuels like the hydrogen used in Saturn 5 upper stages."

He said there has been no hint the large booster has been test fired, indicating possible troubles.

Sheldon noted a Soviet boast before the Apollo 8 moon orbit flight in 1968 that when Americans reached the moon, Russian cosmonauts would be there to greet them.

"That talk stopped after Apollo 8," he said. "And Russian space officials said they had temporarily abandoned a moon landing attempt to concentrate on developing an earth-orbiting space station."

Sheldon said the simultaneous Soyuz 6, 7 and 8 manned flights last October probably were a step in that direction but that they may have failed in a linkup attempt.

He said that cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, told Japanese newsmen last spring that Japan's Expo 70 should be prepared to display moon rocks returned by both Russian and American space-men.

Expo 70 opens next month in Tokyo and Sheldon said there is no evidence the Soviets are close to obtaining moon samples with either a manned or unmanned vehicle.

Sheldon said the Russians conducted 70 successful space launchings in 1969, compared to 40 for the United States. But the Soviet effort was far less spectacular than the Apollo moon landings.

Local Incumbents Reappointed To Ohio Board

Following the Columbus ceremonies performed by Secretary of State Ted Brown and upon receipt of their commissions, the board reapointees file with the county clerk of courts in order to begin new terms on March 1.

Members will then participate in the reorganization of the 88 county Boards of Election early in March.

"DECENCY" AWARD — Michael Levesque, 18, of Hialeah, Fla., poses at Valley Forge, Pa., with the Freedom Foundation's highest honor presented to him for his patriotic zeal in organizing a "Youth for Decency" demonstration held at the Orange Bowl in March, 1969.

District . . .

(Continued from Page 1) enumeration will be used. The Census Bureau estimates that about 40 per cent of the U.S. population live in these districts.

There are 212 other census districts in which the remaining 60 per cent of the population live. These districts, for the most part, include the large cities and their suburbs.

Households in these districts will also receive census questionnaires in the mail to fill out, but they will be asked to mail them back to the census office in a postage-free envelope that will accompany the questionnaire. No census taker will call at these households from which completely filled out questionnaires are returned.

This method will not apply in any of the 11 counties in this district.

The Census Bureau says that having the questionnaire in the home for several days gives the family time to assemble information about each member of the household, thus speeding up the census and providing accurate statistics when the census taker calls.

Social Security Answers

Q. Who must file an annual report of earnings?

A. Anyone who earned more than $1,680 in wages or had more than that amount in self-employment net earnings, and received some social security benefits in the previous year.

Q. If I did not earn as much as I expected to earn in the past year and did not receive any benefit checks, should I file an annual report?

A. Yes, you should. The annual report is used to determine underpayments as well as overpayments. In your situation, you will be sent one check which will assure you all the benefits you were entitled to receive in the prior year.

Q. I am retired and receive monthly social security benefits, but I work part time delivering small orders for a printing firm. I understand I must report if my earnings go over $1,680 in a year, but I don't know when to submit this information. One of my friends says I have to report as soon as I earn that much, and another says I report after the end of the year.

A. They are both right, but each means a different kind of report for a different reason.

As soon as your earnings go over $1,680 in a year you should let us know so we can stop benefits or reduce the amount for the rest of the year. We'll ask you to estimate the amount you will earn in the year, and your estimate will help us make sure the amount we pay you in the year is fairly close to the amount you should get.

Then after the end of the year — by April 15 of the following year — you are required to report in writing to us the amount you actually earned during the year. We'll use this report to figure exactly how much we should have paid you in the past year. If we didn't pay you enough, we'll send what still is due you. If we paid too much, we will request a refund or deduct the amount from future checks.

Q. I'll be 65 in May. My wife thinks I may be able to sign up for retirement benefits before my birthday. Instead of "waiting until the last minute," is that correct?

A. It sure is. It's a good idea to apply 2 or 3 months before you plan to retire, and no later than the month before you reach 65. This way you will be sure of getting all the benefits you are due, including full Medicare protection. You can start early in assembling the information and documents you will need when you do apply. Probably the most important item you will need is proof of age. The best proof is a birth certificate, or record of baptism recorded early in your life. But if you don't have either, don't worry. The people at the social security office can tell you about other proofs that can be used.

The application fee for a commitment on a new house is $45 and $35 for rehabilitation of an existing house.

Administrator Smith explained that it is impossible to determine how much new construction will be started in small rural communities because of the commitment, but pointed out that the agency's housing funds for the current fiscal year stand at $821 million. It is estimated that about 80,000 housing starts will be made this year, compared to 50,000 in 1969.

He also pointed out that there is a great need for housing in rural areas where only 30 per cent of the nation's population lives but more than half of the substandard housing exists.

In 1960, Farmers Home Administration made $40 million in rural housing loans. By 1968 that figure had increased to $494 million. Last year that figure reached $512 million, which provided new or improved housing for over 57,000 rural families.

Two Drivers Top Docket For OMVI

Two drivers were cited for drunken driving on Wednesday's docket of the municipal court.

Charles Shelman, 45, West Jefferson, was fined $150, sentenced to three days in jail and had his license revoked for six months on charges of OMVI stemming from an accident Saturday which injured Anna Whaley, Route 1. Acting Judge Kenneth Robbins granted him permission to drive to and from work.

Clifford F. Salyers, 42, of Coal Grove was arrested early this morning by Deputy John Bost for driving the wrong direction on Route 23 north and OMVI. He was fined a total of $200 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his license suspended 6 months.

On other traffic cases, James Philip Lemaster, 32, Ashville; James Emerine, 22, of 465 E. Main St.; Charles R. Leasure, 38, of 230 Brinks Drive and John D. Prince, 29, of 119 Collins Court, all forfeited $24 on speeding violations.

Michael A. Justice, 18, Route 2, forfeited $19 bond for operating an unsafe vehicle.

Contractor Named For Loan Building

Dwight Heister, president of Equitable Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Lancaster, announced today that J. Boyd Stout Company, 812 Arbor Road, has been awarded the General Contract to build the association's new building to be located at 159 E. Main Street.

Electrical work is to be done by L. Paul Miller Electric Inc., of Lancaster, fixtures by the Haynam Company of Cleveland, and vault equipment by The Mosler Safe Company.

Construction is expected to get under way next week.

Nixon And Pompidou Talk On Middle East Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a cool congressional reception for President Georges Pompidou of France, President Nixon says he hopes talks with the French leader will bring "real progress on fundamental issues."

After discussions with Nixon today at the White House, Pompidou and his wife fly to Cape Kennedy for a tour of U.S. space shot facilities before going on to San Francisco. Other stops on his eight-day tour include Chicago and New York.

At a formal dinner put on by Pompidou at the French Embassy Wednesday night, Nixon expressed his hope the discussion "will produce result and real progress on fundamental issues that we want."

Nixon apparently referred to the Middle East situation, on which the French and Americans take differing positions, and the roles of the United States and France in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The French President said at

At a joint session of Congress earlier in the day, Pompidou was applauded one of eight times when he quoted—in English—the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower's statement that "every nation has a right to live its own life." But one congressman, Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., quietly walked out during the 25-minute address and perhaps a third of the senators and representatives did not attend the session.

Pompidou professed an evenhanded French policy in the Middle East but did not touch on his country's sale of jet fighter planes to Libya, the reason for the boycott of his address by legislators who contended it was designed to aid the Arab side.

He said the French desire peace and feel the United States "the most powerful nation on earth"—has the greatest responsibility to promote peace.

U.S. Expert Believes Soviets Suffered Rocket Setbacks

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A U.S. expert believes the Soviet space program has been set back by technical problems, including trouble with large rockets that could ferry men to the moon.

Dr. Charles Sheldon II said many observers feel the Soviet Union's Proton rocket was intended to boost men on a lunar orbit flight last year, and commented:

"The Cosmos 300 and 305 launchings last year have all the earmarks of unmanned lunar orbit failures."

"Both were boosted by the Proton rocket. One apparently stayed in earth orbit less than one revolution and the other left lots of debris in earth orbit."

"Why haven't they launched any men to the moon? I, for one, wouldn't want to ride on that rocket."

Sheldon is chief of the Science Policy Research Division of the Library of Congress Legislative Research Service. He spoke to a group of technical societies Wednesday night.

He said Western experts believe the Soviet Union is developing a rocket with larger booster power than America's 7.5-million-pound thrust Saturn 5—possibly with more than 12 million pounds.

"But that doesn't mean it will put up twice as much weight as the Saturn 5," he said. "There is no evidence they have perfected high energy fuels like the hydrogen used in Saturn 5 upper stages."

He said there has been no hint the large booster has been test fired, indicating possible troubles.

Sheldon noted a Soviet boast before the Apollo 8 moon orbit flight in 1968 that when Americans reached the moon, Russian cosmonauts would be there to greet them.

"That talk stopped after Apollo 8," he said. "And Russian space officials said they had temporarily abandoned a moon-landing attempt to concentrate on developing an earth-orbiting space station."

Sheldon said the simultaneous Soyuz 6, 7 and 8 manned flights last October probably were a step in that direction but that they may have failed in a linkup attempt.

He said that cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, told Japanese newsmen last spring that Japan's Exo 70 should be prepared to display moon rocks returned by both Russian and American space-men.

Expo 70 opens next month in Tokyo and Sheldon said there is no evidence the Soviets are close to obtaining moon samples with either a manned or unmanned vehicle.

Sheldon said the Russians conducted 70 successful space launchings in 1969, compared to 40 for the United States. But the Soviet effort was far less spectacular than the Apollo moon landings.

Local Incumbents Reappointed To Ohio Board

Sworn in as Ohio Board of Elections members were Miss Lucille Dumm, Republican and William A. Stout, Democrat, incumbent appointees of Pickaway County.

Following the Columbus ceremonies performed by Secretary of State Ted Brown and upon receipt of their commissions, the board reappointees file with the county clerk of courts in order to begin new terms on March 1.

Members will then participate in the reorganization of the 89 county Boards of Election early in March.

"DECENCY" AWARD — Michael Levesque, 18, of Hialeah, Fla., poses at Valley Forge, Pa., with the Freedom Foundation's highest honor presented to him for his patriotic zeal in organizing a "Youth for Decency" demonstration held at the Orange Bowl in March, 1969.

District . . .

(Continued from Page 1) enumeration will be used. The Census Bureau estimates that about 40 per cent of the U.S. population live in these districts.

There are 212 other census districts in which the remaining 60 per cent of the population live. These districts, for the most part, include the large cities and their suburbs. Households in these districts will also receive census questionnaires in the mail to fill out, but they will be asked to mail them back to the census office in a postage-free envelope that will accompany the questionnaire. No census taker will call at these households from which completely filled out questionnaires are returned.

This method will not apply in any of the 11 counties in this district.

The Census Bureau says that having the questionnaire in the home for several days gives the family time to assemble information about each member of the household, thus speeding up the census and providing accurate statistics when the census taker calls.

Circleville City Police are investigating a case of petit larceny and a vandalism.

Mrs. Robert Haddox, 219 Pearl St., notified police that someone had stolen her son's bicycle.

Circleville High School reported to the police someone had torn down speakers and telephone lines at the school football field.

Name Omitted

The name of Mrs. David L. Smith, Route 3, was inadvertently omitted from a story on Save Your Vision Week in The Herald Wednesday.

Mrs. Smith, Mrs. David Goldschmidt and Mrs. Robert Liggett represent the women's auxiliary of the Central Ohio Optometric Assn.

Social Security Answers

Q. Who must file an annual report of earnings?

A. Anyone who earned more than $1,680 in wages or had more than that amount in self-employment net earnings, and received some social security benefits in the previous year.

Q. If I did not earn as much as I expected to earn in the past year and did not receive any benefit checks, should I file an annual report?

A. Yes, you should. The annual report is used to determine underpayments as well as overpayments. In your situation, you will be sent one check which will assure you all the benefits you were entitled to receive in the prior year.

Q. I am retired and receive monthly social security benefits, but I work part time delivering small orders for a printing firm. I understand I must report if my earnings go over $1,680 in a year, but I don't know when to submit this information. One of my friends says I have to report as soon as I earn that much, and another says I report after the end of the year.

A. They are both right, but each means a different kind of report for a different reason. As soon as your earnings go over $1,680 in a year you should let us know so we can stop benefits or reduce the amount for the rest of the year. We'll ask you to estimate the amount you will earn in the year, and your estimate will help us make sure the amount we pay you in the year is fairly close to the amount you should get.

Then after the end of the year — by April 15 of the following year — you are required to report in writing to us the amount you actually earned during the year. We'll use this report to figure exactly how much we should have paid you in the past year. If we didn't pay you enough, we'll send what still is due you. If we paid too much, we will request a refund or deduct the amount from future checks.

Q. I'll be 65 in May. My wife thinks I may be able to sign up for retirement benefits before my birthday. Instead of "waiting until the last minute." Is that correct?

A. It sure is. It's a good idea to apply 2 or 3 months before you plan to retire, and no later than the month before you reach 65. This way you will be sure of getting all the benefits you are due, including full Medicare protection. You can start early in assembling the information and documents you will need when you do apply. Probably the most important item you will need is proof of age. The best proof is a birth certificate, or record of baptism recorded early in your life. But if you don't have either, don't worry. The people at the social security office can tell you about other proofs that can be used.

DEAR ABBY: My brother brought his family from California to Texas to see his wife's folks and some of his.

I usually make friends with children easily. In fact I have had strange children come right up to me and make friends with me.

Though I tried my best, I couldn't seem to make friends with my little 6-year-old niece.
She wouldn't even let me touch her hand to say good-bye to her.
She just frowned when I went near her. I once heard a preacher say that he could tell what a family thought of him by the way the children acted toward him. Would I go wrong to apply the preacher's rule to my brother's case?

HURT
DEAR HURT: Yes. Preachers can be wrong occasionally, too.

DEAR ABBY: What wise advice you gave "Hungry for Love," that stupid 22-year-old whose husband is withholding his favors until she loses 50 pounds! Her excuses and self-pity left me cold, since in 2 years she could have lost 150 pounds, let alone 50. All she needs is a doctor, a diet-and-determination.

Although her obvious ignorance of the value of physical attractiveness to sex, and of sex to marriage, the mystery to me is why it took her so long to miss his attentions-and why her husband is coming home at all! The fact that he is, only proves that he loves her.

Before marriage, my husband said to me, "Stay in shape for me, Baby." I took the hint, and at 48, with a little effort, I still weigh 112. If HUNGRY FOR LOVE could only see how that small effort pays off in fun, health, and romance.

STILL SLIM IN SUNNYVALE
DEAR SLIM: "A little effort" you so glibly say. Perhaps for you, lucky lady. But for many of our sisters, the toughest of all battles is the battle of the bulge.

DEAR ABBY: Permit me to say a few words to "HUNGRY FOR LOVE," whose husband is "punishing" her until she loses 50 pounds. She's luckier than she knows.

Carrying our first child eight years ago, my weight started to climb. Stanley said he didn't care-he'd love me if I got up to 300 pounds. Well, he had a chance to prove it because I did!

My doctor said I was headed straight for heart failure, if not "sweetheart failure." So now I am slowly on my way down from 300 pounds. It's sheer torture. I'd have given anything if Stanley had started to "punish" me about 200 pounds ago! Sincerely, FATSO IN S.F.

It Could Be Worse

Public transportation systems, crowded, uncomfortable and sometimes unreliable though they may be, are infinitely better here than in many parts of the world. Commercial air transportation, in particular, can be a major annoyance to a world traveler.

In Latin America, which has been having problems with hijackers, the standard procedure in many airports is for each passenger to submit a body and luggage searches before he is permitted to depart. Armed guards frequently accompany flights and shoot-outs between the guards and hijackers have resulted in several deaths.

Coming home from such a trip makes a traveler more appreciative of his transportation services, breakdowns and all.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Throughout the past year a great deal of publicity has been given to the various indices of consumer confidence, the notion being that a confident consumer is a spender, a timid one a saver.

Studies suggest that consumer confidence indices might be able to foretell actual retail sales conditions four or five months ahead, thus enabling manufacturers and retailers to prepare their inventories.

Confidence has been falling of late. Harassed by news about the Vietnam war, inflation, taxes and even the threat of recession, consumers have had a tendency to withdraw into the security of their shells.

In addition, with inflation eroding the value of spending money, their actual ability to spend has in some instances declined. And so the combination of reluctance and inability made a sad story for some retailers.

A lot of Americans, however, don't recognize themselves as lacking in buying confidence or ability. Their willingness couldn't be higher, they say. And their ability to spend has steadily increased.

Curious to learn more about the situation, the marketing and opinion research firm of Sindlinger & Co. decided to break down the consumer confidence measurements by various categories, and it found:

—Confidence is lowest in the Midwest, a bit better in the West, higher in the East and highest of all in the South.

—Confidence is higher in rural areas than it is in the big cities.

—Confidence among whites is much higher than among non-whites.

The variations are so wide that it appears misleading to say that Americans are or are not confident. It would be more precise to say that they are or are not in specific regions and markets.

For example, the national average, on Sindlinger's scale, dropped recently to 67.5 per cent, compared with a high of 78.7 per cent one year earlier.

Within this range, however, were included the figures for Detroit, where confidence was at a recession-like percentage of 48.4, and Atlanta, where the figure stood at a boom-like 81.5 per cent.

The low Detroit figure results, of course, from cutbacks in auto production, just as a 59.8 per cent figure for Seattle represents layoffs in the aerospace industry in that area.

The confidence percentages are determined from many answers to questions in four basic categories: current household income, expected household income, expected employment situation and expected local business conditions.

The latest surveys, all made by telephone from Philadelphia, produced these percentages: East 70.5, Midwest 61.9, South 76.2, West 65.6. Rural markets scored 77.2, but major industrial markets only 64.9.

Sindlinger interprets the rural-metropolitan disparity to a good crop year and a feeling among farmers that although prices for crops are not as high as they would like to see, they are more satisfactory than in other years.

Figures for major cities include: Boston 65.6, New York 64.4, Philadelphia 69, Washington 66.6, Buffalo 68.2, Chicago 65.5, Cleveland 58.2, St. Louis 62.9, Milwaukee 65, Kansas City 66.1, Louisville 63.6.

In the South, Dallas with 77.3 per cent was right behind Atlanta. Houston reported 75.2, Miami 75.6, New Orleans 74.5. St. Petersburg-Tampa rated only 70.1, perhaps reflecting the inflationary pinch on fixed-income retirees.

In the West, San Diego, with 59.5, was even lower than Seattle. Other West figures included Portland 60.4, San Francisco 63.6, Los Angeles 67.2, Denver 65.4.

Throughout the country the confidence level of nonwhites was far below the national average. Whereas whites registered 70.5 per cent, or higher than the national average, nonwhites scored only 53.6 per cent.

Because of such wide variations, says Albert Sindlinger, manufacturers and retailers have committed serious marketing errors, shipping at great cost the wrong products and the wrong quantities to their outlets.

Sensing a business opportunity, Sindlinger now plans to study 30 major markets in the United States in the same manner as the nation as a whole is studied.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"I TOOK my wife to the track yesterday," reported Mr. Dreyfus, "and even though it was the first time she had been to the races, she won three times." "You're a lucky man," decided his friend. "My wife gets winded just going shopping."

Two members of the Florida State University golf team starred in an unprecedented rescue operation. Striding together down the fairway of the fifteenth hole, which has a deep, narrow ditch some sixty yards in front of the tee, they heard frantic female cries for help. It took them a few moments to locate the damsel in distress.

They found her in the ditch—literally standing on her head. She had flubbed her drive into the ditch, leaned over too far looking for it, and tumbled headfirst into the mud. The boys pulled her out, but she was too embarrassed to identify herself.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Some of the warnings suggest that hoarseness may be an early sign of cancer. I am hoarse, scared and cannot stop smoking.

Mrs. R. S. C., Massachusetts Dear Mrs. C.: Your personal anxiety distorts the message of caution about hoarseness. Good medical information only suggests that persistent hoarseness should be studied to find its basic cause. This idea in medical education held for any symptom that lasts more than a short time.

How does one persuade a scared, hoarse person to stop smoking? There is only one way and that is a sane, mature presentation of the facts. Tobacco is an added irritant that can only prolong the duration of your hoarseness. I find that it is not reasonable to terrify you into giving up tobacco when you are as concerned as you seem to be?

Have your larynx and vocal cords examined. This will give you, in all likelihood, the comfort that you do not have a cancer. Then consider giving up smoking and you will find more freedom from your obvious fears and anxieties.

Is a seven-day virus infection more severe than a one-day virus? Both are circulating in our house.

Mr. W. B., Ohio Dear Mr. B.: I am writing this "in a whisper," so please don't tell anyone that I am confessing that I do not know what either a one-day or a seven-day virus really is. I do know this, that "unknown" virus infections are almost a fashionable trend. There is "24-hour" virus which may have more distinction than the two-day or the seven-day one. In some communities, the "echo," the "q," and the Lebo viruses seem to carry more prestige than does "walking" pneumonia (whatever that is).

Virus infections are diagnosed by physicians with great difficulty and are never used as a catch-all when a medical conclusion is hard to establish.

Twice in the past year, my lower lip suddenly began to swell right after I ate a boiled lobster. This has never happened to me before in my 45 years. Can one develop an allergy so late in life?

Mr. D. F. M., Rhode Island Dear Mr. M.: As a lobster lover, I feel sorry for you. With that experience it may be necessary to avoid eating one of your favorite dishes. As a physician, I can tell you that the story sounds typical of an allergic reaction known as angioneurotic edema. Accurately, you are one of the favored few who has been able to determine that this particular food is an offending, allergy-producing one. It is possible in some cases to desensitize a person who is allergic to a particular food. Allergic reactions can occur at any age.

Don't pull hangnails. This encourages infection.

Today is Thursday, February 26, the 57th day of 1970. There are 308 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1531, an earthquake in Portugal killed tens of thousands of people and flattened much of Lisbon and other cities.

On this date— In 1802, one of the great figures in French literature, Victor Hugo, was born.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte escaped from the island of Elba. In 1846, the American frontier scout and showman known as "Buffalo Bill"—William Frederick Cody—was born in Scott County, Iowa.

In 1919, Congress established Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona.

In 1918, during World War I, German planes bombed Venice, Italy.

In 1945, during the Second World War, American guns were shelling Cologne, Germany, while American bombers were pounding Tokyo.

Ten years ago: President Dwight D. Eisenhower was cheered by hundreds of thousands of Argentinians during a visit to Buenos Aires.

Five years ago: Indonesia seized rubber plantations owned by U.S. companies.

One year ago: President Richard M. Nixon addressed the West German parliament in Bonn.

The Aerospace Program

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN I must confess that the idea of supersonic air transport leaves me cold. Whether I get to Europe a few hours sooner would, presumably, only intensify the "jet lag"—meaning the terrible urge to fall asleep during the speeches at a luncheon when it is still only breakfast time at home and the equally disconcerting inability to fight insomnia at 3 a.m., which Scott Fitzgerald quite rightly said was the hour of the Dark Night of the Soul. So, when Senator William Proxmire objects to putting up SST (supersonic transport) money to keep a project going I tend to shrug my shoulders. After all, he's promising to save me some cash.

My friend Jim Burnham, who writes fascinating pieces in National Review about the connection between high technology and remaining one jump ahead of the would-be hangers-on of Moscow who want to "bury us," tells me I'm all wrong in my attitude. It is not the SST as an isolated item that he defends; it is the whole aerospace industry, which he insists is the "foundation of American technological, economic and military preeminence."

Not only has the aerospace industry transformed world travel (and incidentally brought needed foreign exchange to us from those who buy our planes); it has also sparked the development of computers, military and communications satellites, miniaturization, sophisticated new metallurgy and the advanced techniques of "systems management" that will eventually enable us to zero in on our oppressive pollution and crime problems. It is significant that Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles had to turn to the aerospace companies for advice on how to get maximum efficiency out of his police force without buying new police cars that the taxpayers had no wish to finance.

The point Jim Burnham makes is that mankind is going to have a supersonic transport whether I like it or not. If this country doesn't come up with it, a British-French consortium or even a Soviet government agency will step in and corner the huge international market that, willy-nilly, will insist on using it.

The British-French Concorde prototypes have already completed hundreds of hours of test flights, and by 1973 there might very well be SSTs in commercial use that will carry a hundred thousand passengers a year per plane. Burnham asks if we are going to surrender the market here while we are arguing about the national priorities of Florida alligators.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

Today is the birthday anniversary of the all-time top hero (real, not fictional) of American boydom, Babe Ruth? Nope. Red Grange? Nope. Jack Dempsey? Nope. Give up?—William Frederick (Buffalo Bill) Cody—that's who!

Buffalo Bill was born Feb. 26, 1846, so if he were still alive today, age 124, we'd bet he could still outshoot and outmaneuver most of the characters who star in TV westerns now.

Cody got his nickname by polishing off a lot of bison to furnish food for workers building the Kansas Pacific Railway.

Buffalo Bill really became famous for other and far greater deeds. For one he was rider with the legendary Pony Express which despite Indians and other handicaps delivered the mail fast and without benefit of zip codes.

alligators well. I might be willing to sacrifice some of the Boeing Company's profits to keep them safe from extinction in the Everglades. But nations can become extinct as well as animals. Taking Senator Proxmire's crusade against the SST as a symbol, are we in danger of relinquishing the control of our own destiny by doing an irreparable harm to our aerospace industry?

Representative Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, who may be making a pitch to move upwards into the Senate, has recently emerged as the most eloquent spokesman in public life for the Burnham contention that the U.S. will stand or fall on the quality of its space program. Where Burnham talks in generalities, Weicker talks in specifics. The spin-offs of our space program have included such things as a fluoroscopic camera that will identify possibly cancerous tumors in their earliest stages.

Space scientists have made it technically possible to link a miniature radar and television lens to the optic nerve, which will enable the blind to "see." A fuel cell, designed for use in moon-going capsules, may make a smog-free automobile possible. Another offshoot of the space technology is a dentist drill that works without vibration. Then there are miniature TV cameras so small that they can be swallowed to spy on ulcers, and an instrument so tiny that it can be floated into the bloodstream with a hypodermic needle in order to transmit information on what is going on in a damaged heart.

Weicker does not object to the use of tax money to support a space program. The program we now have, so he tells us, "is paying for itself." According to his figures, a thirty-five billion dollar government investment has been responsible for a $200 billion growth in the national economy, and some of the tax revenues made possible by that $200 billion may yet save the Florida alligators.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman
CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

On Jan. 27 President Nixon vetoed the $19.7 billion Health, Education and Welfare Appropriations Bill stating as his reasons inflationary increases placed in the bill by the congress and certain mandatory spending language.

On Feb. 2, the President sent a letter to Congress recommending a compromise measure that amounted to a $449 million increase in the amount originally recommended by the Administration. This left $948 million in the vetoed bill which President Nixon found objectionable.

On Thursday, an HEW Appropriation Bill of $19.3 billion was offered which is still $593 million above the budget requests and $244 million above the President's compromise offer.

An amendment was offered to bring the figure back to that originally approved by Congress. This amendment was defeated. Another amendment increasing the amount for impacted school districts by $80 million was offered and accepted. This means that the funds for impacted school districts will be the same as were provided during 1969. Two amendments were offered which would prohibit the use of federal funds for the busing of school children from one school district to another. A motion to return the bill to committee was made which would provide for discretionary authority by the President in the expenditure of funds in accordance with the President's veto message request. The bill finally passed the House with the $529 million increase and was sent to the Senate.

A bill which would extend the Anadromous Fish Conservation Act for an additional five years and would increase federal participation was passed by the House on Monday. Anadromous fish are those species of fish which begin their life in fresh water, where they live for varying periods and then migrate to salt water, where they spend most of their adult lives, finally returning to fresh water—usually to the place of their birth—to spawn and die.

The Great Lakes have been included in the provisions of the bill, although technically, there are no anadromous fish there. Many Great Lakes fish ascend streams to spawn but they do not migrate to salt water. However, in 1965, a new program was commenced with the transplanting of West Coast fresh water coho salmon into the Great Lakes. During the 1969 season, 172,000 salmon were caught in the Great Lakes indicating the success of the program. The bill provides that, whenever two or more states having a common interest in any river, lake or other body of water enter into a cooperative agreement to carry out a research and development program to conserve, develop and enhance the anadromous fishery resources of the nation or in the Great Lakes, the federal share of the program shall be increased to 60 per cent from the present 50 per cent. In the past four years, Ohio has received $103,000 in federal funds under the Anadromous Fish Conservation Act of 1965.

On Wednesday, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill "to establish a Commission on Population Growth and the American Future." The population explosion is an integral component of many pressing social problems such as crowded schools, traffic jams, environmental pollution and even an adequate food supply in the future. These were arguments used to support the bill which passed the House on a record vote of 371 yeas to 13 nays.

This legislation directs the Commission to conduct an inquiry into the following aspects of population growth in the United States: (1) the probable course of population growth, internal migration, and related demographic developments between now and the year 2000; (2) the resources in the public sector of the economy that will be required to deal with the anticipated growth in population; (3) the ways in which population growth may affect the activities of Federal, State and local government; (4) the impact of population growth on environmental pollution and on the depletion of natural resources; and (5) the various ethical values and principles of this society by which our nation can achieve a population level properly suited to its environmental, natural resources and other needs.

On Monday, the Senate Judiciary Committee recommended, by a 13-4 vote, confirmation of Federal Appeals Court Judge G. Harold Carswell of Florida to the Supreme Court. The Chairman of the Senate Committee has predicted that the Senate will now confirm Judge Carswell. Floor debate on the confirmation is scheduled to begin the week of March 2.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the ordeals of marriage to a husband is having to clean out his closet.

It is never his idea. It is always his wife's. But at least once a year she gives him the ultimatum:

"That closet of yours is looking like the city dump again. There are probably mice in it. Either clean it out or I'll clean it out for you—and you know what that means."

Of course he knows what that means. It means she will go through his closet like a blind bulldozer running amuck with no one at the controls.

It means that she will heartlessly throw away basketfuls of clutter he puts great value on but which means nothing to her. "Junk," she calls it, but it is part of his life to him.

It means she will line the closet walls with a dark red quilt-like fabric dented by scores of revolting dimples. She likes that fabric in her closet; why shouldn't he like it in his?

So, in order to save what he can, he finally settles down to the chore himself.

"I'll sit down and watch you," his wife says helpfully, pulling up a chair.

The husband dips tentatively in a box amid the closet's jumble and starts pulling out items.

"Must I throw away my grammar school diploma? My mother had it framed for me."

"No," she says. "You can keep that."

"How about this old high school sweatshirt? I was wearing it the first time I met you."

"Well, I guess you can keep that, too."

"How about this old military field jacket?"

"Why in heaven's name would you want that now?"

"Because I wore it in the only war I ever knew. See this stain here? That's where I spilled some coffee while I was writing you a letter from a foxhole in Belgium. By the way, did you throw away the letter?"

"No, of course not."

"Then why do I have to throw away the jacket?"

"All right, keep it. But you do have to throw away something."

"The husband fishes deeper in the closet and brings out a pair of shoes, dusty but new looking."

"I bought them 20 years ago but couldn't wear them because they were too tight," he says.

"Then why did you keep them?"

"I thought that as I grew older my feet might shrink."

"Get rid of them."

Looking at her husband curiously, the wife asks, "Just why do men like disorderly closets anyway? Wouldn't it be easier to find things if your closet were neat?"

"Well, a woman's closet is like an army on parade, full of bright new things, row on row, that give her a feeling of security," he says.

"But a man's closet is like an army at ease, not standing at attention to be inspected and criticized. He likes to fill it, as he does his life, with things he is comfortable with—things tried and true that he never wants to be without."

She looks at him thoughtfully.

"Do those tried and true things he never wants to be without include his wife?"

"Of course. He'd never never want to throw her away."

"Well, if you'll take me out to dinner tonight I'll let you rest now. But one of these days you'll simply have to get rid of at least half of this junk in your closet. It sets a bad example for the children."

The husband closes the closet door. Safe for another year.

"I LED TWO WIVES" could be the epitaph for Dr. Darrell Shipley, 38, whose death in crash of his airplane revealed that he had two families, one in Erie, Pa., and one in Clarksville, Tenn. In Erie, Mrs. Joanne Shipley, 39, leaves the courthouse after a Solomon-like decision of Judge James B. Dwyer, shown in his chambers, that she is the legal surviving spouse and has the right to bury Dr. Shipley. But disposition of the double-family doctor's half-million-dollar estate still is up in the air.

It Could Be Worse

Public transportation systems, crowded, uncomfortable and sometimes unreliable though they may be, are infinitely better here than in many parts of the world. Commercial air transportation, in particular, can be a major annoyance to a world traveler.

In Latin America, which has been having problems with hijackers, the standard procedure in many airports is for each passenger to submit a body and luggage searches before he is permitted to depart. Armed guards frequently accompany flights and shoot-outs between the guards and hijackers have resulted in several deaths.

Coming home from such a trip makes a traveler more appreciative of his transportation services, breakdowns and all.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Throughout the past year a great deal of publicity has been given to the various indices of consumer confidence, the notion being that a confident consumer is a spender, a timid one a saver.

Studies suggest that consumer confidence indices might be able to foretell actual retail sales conditions four or five months ahead, thus enabling manufacturers and retailers to prepare their inventories.

Confidence has been falling of late. Harassed by news about the Vietnam war, inflation, taxes and even the threat of recession, consumers have had a tendency to withdraw into the security of their shells.

In addition, with inflation eroding the value of spending money, their actual ability to spend has in some instances declined. And so the combination of reluctance and inability made a sad story for some retailers.

A lot of Americans, however, don't recognize themselves as lacking in buying confidence or ability. Their willingness couldn't be higher, they say. And their ability to spend has steadily increased.

Curious to learn more about the situation, the marketing and opinion research firm of Sindlinger & Co. decided to break down the consumer confidence measurements by various categories, and it found:

—Confidence is lowest in the Midwest, a bit better in the West, higher in the East and highest of all in the South.

—Confidence is higher in rural areas than it is in the big cities.

—Confidence among whites is much higher than among non-whites.

The variations are so wide that it appears misleading to say that Americans are or are not confident. It would be more precise to say that they are or are not in specific regions and markets.

For example, the national average, on Sindlinger's scale, dropped recently to 67.5 percent, compared with a high of 78.7 percent one year earlier.

Within this range, however, were included the figures for Detroit, where confidence was at a recession-like percentage of 48.4, and Atlanta, where the figure stood at a boom-like 81.5 percent.

The low Detroit figure results, of course, from cutbacks in auto production, just as a 59.8 percent figure for Seattle represents layoffs in the aerospace industry in that area.

The confidence percentages are determined from many answers to questions in four basic categories: current household income, expected household income, expected employment situation and expected local business conditions.

The latest surveys, all made by telephone from Philadelphia, produced these percentages: East 70.5, Midwest 61.9, South 76.2, West 65.6. Rural markets scored 77.2, but major industrial markets only 64.9.

Sindlinger interprets the rural-metropolitan disparity to a good crop year and a feeling among farmers that although prices for crops are not as high as they would like to see, they are more satisfactory than in other years.

Figures for major cities include: Boston 65.6, New York 64.4, Philadelphia 69, Washington 66.6, Buffalo 68.2, Chicago 65.5, Cleveland 58.2, St. Louis 62.9, Milwaukee 65, Kansas City 66.1, Louisville 63.6.

In the South, Dallas with 77.3 percent was right behind Atlanta. Houston reported 75.2, Miami 75.8, New Orleans 74.5, St. Petersburg-Tampa rated only 70.1, perhaps reflecting the inflationary pinch on fixed-income retirees.

In the West, San Diego, with 59.5, was even lower than Seattle. Other West figures included Portland 60.4, San Francisco 63.6, Los Angeles 67.2, Denver 63.4.

Throughout the country the confidence level of nonwhites was far below the national average. Whereas whites registered 70.5 percent, or higher than the national average, nonwhites scored only 53.6 percent.

Because of such wide variations, says Albert Sindlinger, manufacturers and retailers have committed serious marketing errors, shipping at great cost the wrong products and the wrong quantities to their outlets.

Sensing a business opportunity, Sindlinger now plans to study 30 major markets in the United States in the same manner as the nation as a whole is studied.

Two members of the Florida State University golf team started in an unprecedented rescue operation. Striding together down the fairway of the fifteenth hole, which has a deep, narrow ditch some sixty yards in front of the tee, they heard frantic female cries for help. It took them a few moments to locate the damsel in distress.

They found her in the ditch—literally standing on her head. She had flubbed her drive into the ditch, leaned over too far looking for it, and tumbled headfirst into the mud. The boys pulled her out, but she was too embarrassed to identify herself.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Some of the warnings suggest that hoarseness may be an early sign of cancer. I am hoarse, scared and cannot stop smoking.

Mrs. R. S. C., Massachusetts Dear Mrs. C.: Your personal anxiety distorts the message of caution about hoarseness. Good medical information only suggests that persistent hoarseness should be studied to find its basic cause. This idea in medical education holds for any symptom that lasts more than a short time.

How does one persuade a scared, hoarse person to stop smoking? There is only one way and that is a sane, mature presentation of the facts. Tobacco is an added irritant that can only prolong the duration of your hoarseness. I find that it is not reasonable to terrify you into giving up tobacco when you are as concerned as you seem to be?

Have your larynx and vocal cords examined. This will give you, in all likelihood, the comfort that you do not have a cancer. Then consider giving up smoking and you will find more freedom from your obvious fears and anxieties.

Is a seven-day virus infection more severe than a one-day virus? Both are circulating in our house.

Mr. W. B., Ohio Dear Mr. B.: I am writing this "in a whisper" so please don't tell anyone that I am confessing that I do not know what either a one-day or a seven-day virus really is. I do know this, that "unknown" virus infections are almost a fashionable trend. There is "24-hour" virus which may have more distinction than the two-day or the seven-day one. In some communities, the "echo," the "q," and the Lebo viruses seem to carry more prestige than does "walking" pneumonia (whatever that is).

Virus infections are diagnosed by physicians with great difficulty and are never used as a catch-all when a medical conclusion is hard to establish.

Twice in the past year, my lower lip suddenly began to swell right after I ate a boiled lobster. This has never happened to me before in my 45 years. Can one develop an allergy so late in life?

Mr. D. F. M., Rhode Island Dear Mr. M.: As a lobster lover, I feel sorry for you. With that experience it may be necessary to avoid eating one of your favorite dishes. As a physician, I can tell you that the story sounds typical of an allergic reaction known as angioneurotic edema. Accurately, you are one of the favored few who has been able to determine that this particular food is an offending, allergy-producing one. It is possible in some cases to desensitize a person who is allergic to a particular food. Allergic reactions can occur at any age.

Don't pull hangnails. This encourages infection.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Thursday, February 26, the 57th day of 1970. There are 308 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1531, an earthquake in Portugal killed tens of thousands of people and flattened much of Lisbon and other cities.

The Aerospace Program

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN I must confess that the idea of supersonic air transport leaves me cold. Whether I get to Europe a few hours sooner would, presumably, only intensify the "jet lag"—meaning the terrible urge to fall asleep during the speeches at a luncheon when it is still only breakfast time at home and the equally disconcerting inability to fight insomnia at 3 a.m., which Scott Fitzgerald quite rightly said was the hour of the Dark Night of the Soul. So, when Senator William Proxmire objects to putting up SST (supersonic transport) money to keep a project going I tend to shrug my shoulders. After all, he's promising to save me some cash.

My friend Jim Burnham, who writes fascinating pieces in National Review about the connection between high technology and remaining one jump ahead of the would-be hangmen of Moscow who want to "bury us," tells me I'm all wrong in my attitude. It is not the SST as an isolated item that he defends; it is the whole aerospace industry, which he insists is the "foundation of American technological, economic and military pre-eminence."

Not only has the aerospace industry transformed world travel (and incidentally brought needed foreign exchange to us from those who buy our planes); it has also sparked the development of computers, satellites, miniaturization, sophisticated new metallurgy and the advanced techniques of "systems management" that will eventually enable us to zero in on our oppressive pollution and crime problems. It is significant that Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles had to turn to the aerospace companies for advice on how to get maximum efficiency out of his police force without buying new prowls cars that the taxpayers had no wish to finance.

The point Jim Burnham makes is that mankind is going to have a supersonic transport whether I like it or not. If this country doesn't come up with it, a British-French consortium or even a Soviet government agency will step in and corner the huge international market that, willy-nilly, will insist on using it.

The British-French Concorde prototypes have already completed hundreds of hours of test flights, and by 1973 there might very well be SSTs in commercial use that will carry a hundred thousand passengers a year per plane. Burnham asks if we are going to surrender the market here while we are arguing about the national priorities of Florida alligators.

As one who wishes the alligators well, I might be willing to sacrifice some of the Boeing Company's profits to keep them safe from extinction in the Everglades. But nations can become extinct as well as animals. Taking Senator Proxmire's crusade against the SST as a symbol, are we in danger of relinquishing the control of our own destiny by doing an irreparable harm to our aerospace industry?

Representative Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, who may be making a pitch to move upwards into the Senate, has recently emerged as the most eloquent spokesman in public life for the Burnham contention that the U.S. will stand or fall on the quality of its space program. Where Burnham talks in generalities, Weicker talks in specifics. The spin-offs of our space program have included such things as a fluoroscopic camera that will identify possibly cancerous tumors in their earliest stages.

Space scientists have made it technically possible to link a miniature radar and television lens to the optic nerve, which will enable the blind to "see". A fuel cell, designed for use in moon-going capsules, may make a smog-free automobile possible. Another offshoot of the space technology is a dentist drill that works without vibration. Then there are miniature TV cameras so small that they can be swallowed to spy on ulcers, and an instrument so tiny that it can be floated into the bloodstream with a hypodermic needle in order to transmit information on what is going on in a damaged heart.

Weicker does not object to the use of tax money to support a space program. The program we now have, so he tells us, "is paying for itself." According to his figures, a thirty-five billion dollar government investment has been responsible for a $200 billion growth in the national economy, and some of the tax revenues made possible by that $200 billion may yet save the Florida alligators.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

On Jan. 27 President Nixon vetoed the $19.7 billion Health, Education and Welfare Appropriations Bill stating as his reasons inflationary increases placed in the bill by the congress and certain mandatory spending language.

On Feb. 2, the President sent a letter to Congress recommending a compromise measure that amounted to a $449 million increase in the amount originally recommended by the Administration. This left $948 million in the vetoed bill which President Nixon found objectionable.

On Thursday, an HEW Appropriation Bill of $19.3 billion was offered which is still $593 million above the budget requests and $244 million above the President's compromise offer.

An amendment was offered to bring the figure back to that originally approved by Congress. This amendment was defeated. Another amendment increasing the amount for impacted school districts by $80 million was offered and accepted. This means that the funds for impacted school districts will be the same as were provided during 1969. Two amendments were offered which would prohibit the use of federal funds for the busing of school children from one school district to another. A motion to return the bill to committee was made which would provide for discretionary authority by the President in the expenditure of funds in accordance with the President's veto message and the request. The bill finally passed the House with the $529 million increase and was sent to the Senate.

A bill which would extend the Anadromous Fish Conservation Act for an additional five years and would increase federal participation was passed by the House on Monday. Anadromous fish are those species of fish which begin their life in fresh water, where they live for varying periods and then migrate to salt water, where they spend most of their adult lives, finally returning to fresh water—usually to the place of their birth—to spawn and die.

The Great Lakes have been included in the provisions of the bill, although technically, there are no anadromous fish there. Many Great Lakes fish ascend streams to spawn but they do not migrate to salt water. However, in 1965, a new program was commenced with the transplanting of West Coast fresh water coho salmon into the Great Lakes. During the 1969 season, 172,000 salmon were caught in the Great Lakes indicating the success of the program.

The bill provides that, whenever two or more states having a common interest in any river, lake or other body of water enter into a cooperative agreement to carry out a research and development program to conserve, develop and enhance the anadromous fishery resources of the nation or in the Great Lakes, the federal share of the program shall be increased to 60 percent from the present 50 percent.

In the past four years, Ohio has received $103,000 in federal funds under the Anadromous Fish Conservation Act of 1965.

On Wednesday, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill "to establish a Commission on Population Growth and the American Future." The population explosion is an integral component of many pressing social problems such as crowded schools, traffic jams, environmental pollution and even an adequate food supply in the future. These were arguments used to support the bill which passed the House on a record vote of 371 yeas to 13 nays.

This legislation directs the Commission to conduct an inquiry into the following aspects of population growth in the United States: (1) the probable course of population growth, internal migration, and related demographic developments between now and the year 2000; (2) the resources in the public sector of the economy that will be required to deal with the anticipated growth in population; (3) the ways in which population growth may affect the activities of Federal, State and local government; (4) the impact of population growth on environmental pollution and on the depletion of natural resources; and (5) the various means appropriate to the ethical values and principles of this society by which our nation can achieve a population level properly suited to its environmental, natural resources and other needs.

On Monday, the Senate Judiciary Committee recommended, by a 13-4 vote, confirmation of Federal Appeals Court Judge G. Harold Carswell of Florida to the Supreme Court. The Chairman of the Senate Committee has predicted that the Senate will now confirm Judge Carswell. Floor debate on the confirmation is scheduled to begin the week of March 2.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the ordeals of marriage to a husband is having to clean out his closet.

It is never his idea. It is always his wife's. But at least once a year she gives him the ultimatum: "That closet of yours is looking like the city dump again. There are probably mice in it. Either clean it out or I'll clean it out for you—and you know what that means."

Of course he knows what that means. It means she will go through his closet like a blind bulldozer running amuck with no one at the controls.

It means that she will heartlessly throw away basketfuls of clutter he puts great value on but which means nothing to her. "Junk," she calls it, but it is part of his life to him.

It means she will line the closet walls with a dark red quilt-like fabric dented by scores of revolting dimples. She likes that fabric in her closet; why shouldn't he like it in his?

So, in order to save what he can, he finally settles down to the chore himself.

"I'll sit down and watch you," his wife says helpfully, pulling up a chair.

The husband dips tentatively in a box amid the closet's jumble and starts pulling out items. "Must I throw away my grammar school diploma? My mother had it framed for me."

"No," she says. "You can keep that."

"How about this old high school sweatshirt? I was wearing it the first time I met you."

"Well, I guess you can keep that, too."

"How about this old military field jacket?"

"Why in heaven's name would you want that now?"

"Because I wore it in the only war I ever knew. See this stain here? That's where I spilled some coffee while I was writing you a letter from a foxhole in Belgium. By the way, did you throw away the letter?"

"No, of course not."

"Then why do I have to throw away the jacket?"

"All right, keep it. But you do have to throw away something."

"The husband fishes deeper in the closet and brings out a pair of shoes, dusty but new looking. 'I bought them 20 years ago but couldn't wear them because they were too tight,' he says."

"Then why did you keep them?"

"I thought that as I grew older my feet might shrink."

"Get rid of them."

Looking at her husband curiously, the wife asks, "Just why do men like disorderly closets anyway? Wouldn't it be easier to find things if your closet were neat?"

Confused Tangle Of Building Codes Boosts Housing Costs

Editor's Note: This, the fourth of five articles from the AP Special Assignment Team, details how a myriad of labor rules, building codes, regulations and restrictions helps drive housing costs up.

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP) — In a Chicago suburb, an architectural control commission required a builder to add a $135 nonfunctional gable to a garage roof.

In Kansas City, plumbers and plumbing contractors are still trying to overthrow in court a voters' referendum permitting builders to use cost-saving plastic pipe.

In Los Angeles County, it can take six weeks to process an application to build housing for sale under FHA mortgages—four weeks longer than it takes in the next county.

Narrow examples? Perhaps. Costly? Only in the tunes of hundreds of dollars each—per house.

But these and a myriad of other seemingly minor restraints—labor rules, building codes, regulations and restrictions—join such factors as tight money, high interest rates and soaring land costs in adding to the cost of housing.

For example, one expert says a single construction code change on spacing of 2x4s could save home buyers $100 million a year nationally.

Northbrook builder Richard C. Harwood, chairman of the National Association of Home Builders' codes committee, cited the consumer, government and labor as the principal constraints on building cost.

The consumer, says Harwood, is a "rather backward ignorant technology and is afraid of change."

"Ten years ago when we started using roof trusses instead of rafters and joists," he said, "the consumer thought it was skimpy. Yet it could carry 40 per cent more load and could save $120 a house."

"He's afraid of plastic pipe, too. Yet HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) and FHA (Federal Housing Administration) and the code groups (which write model building codes) have tested it and approved."

Harwood said some communities have imposed through their building codes such requirements as a 300-square-foot living room, 150-square foot kitchen and 50-square foot bathroom to boost house sizes and thus the income level of buyers.

He said one inspector was asked how the footage requirements were arrived at and replied: "We think this is what it should be."

Harwood said code differences mean the same house that builds for $48,000 in Northbrook costs $1,200 more two miles away in Glenview, Ill.

The combination of labor union influence on codes in the Chicago area and union work rules themselves also add to costs, said Harwood.

He said a group of builders offered to help the city of Chicago develop a building code for rehabilitating old buildings. The agreement with plumbers to handle plastic pipe, and with electricians to handle flexible sheathing wiring instead of stringing all wiring through metal conduit.

"The city never went ahead with the project," Harwood said. "It was solely a labor constraint. It was not economically sound for the builder to go into rehab work because the code was too restrictive. The codes are creating slums and aggravating the housing situation."

Harwood estimates it costs $75 to $125 extra per house where plumbers and or codes prohibit use of the more flexible and easier to handle plastic pipe for drain, vent and waste systems.

The biggest recent battles in the code and union area have centered on plastic pipe. Builders almost unanimously say they can save money using plastic pipe. Plumbing unions, plumbing contractors and the Cast Iron Soil Pipe Institute, a trade association, have fought its approval in building codes.

A legal dispute in Kansas City, Mo., is a classic example of how complex and prolonged a building code battle can become.

The Kansas City Council, after months of hearings and study, adopted a revised city plumbing code Aug. 9, 1968, over opposition of local unions and a group they started called the Citizens Plumbing Committee.

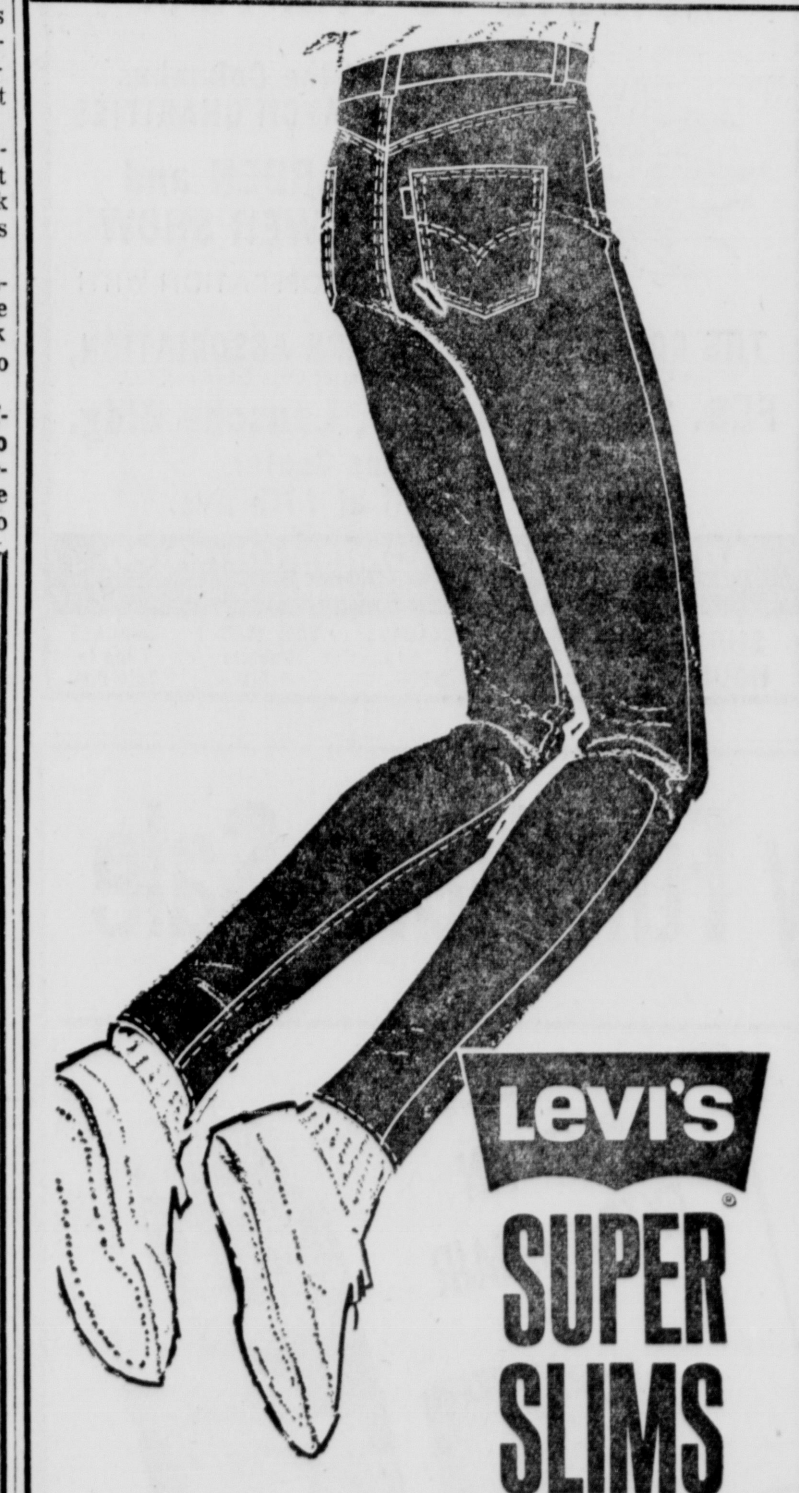

The new code, allowing plastic pipe for some construction projects, was backed by a group called Citizens for an Up-To-Date Plumbing Code—strongly backed by the Home Builders Association, Chamber of Commerce and local chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

After the code was adopted, code opponents obtained 1,000 signatures and forced the code to a referendum. Kansas City voters approved the new code by a 6-to-5 margin.

Plumbers and plumbing contractors then went to court attacking the code. But a circuit court judge upheld the code last May.

Court fights are continuing, complicated by a dispute over plumbers' licensing that is involved in the new code. The case is expected eventually to reach the Missouri Supreme Court. Meantime, plumbers' supporters introduced a bill in the Missouri Legislature to ban use of plastic pipe throughout the state.

If the Kansas City plastic pipe dispute sounds confused, multiply it by the number of local governments in the United States, then multiply that by the number of structural components and separate elements that go into a house.

That would give an idea of how tangled the entire building code situation is in the United States.

The states have historically handed responsibility for building codes down to local units of government. As a result, there are more than 8,000 separate building codes in the United States.

In a few cases, however, states are reclaiming the responsibility. California and Ohio have passed laws giving the state inspection power over housing mass-produced in factories. And in Connecticut a statewide building code for all construction will go into effect in October.

What standardization there is in building codes mostly results from efforts of four essentially regional, private organizations to develop model codes and encourage their adoption.

T. H. Carter, executive director of the International Conference of Building Officials—one of the four groups—said differences in building codes are not as great from one jurisdiction to another as sometime is charged — "but the problem is that different jurisdictions read a section of code differently."

Carter's group now checks about 150 new products a year to see if they meet model code requirements or if they should be incorporated into the code. He acknowledged there is "quite a bit" of lobbying of code committee members by industry or product interests.

A critic of this product approval system is Gene A. Rowland of the U.S. Bureau of Standards, who as executive director of the National Conference of States on Building Codes and Standards has spearheaded an effort for states to reassume control over building codes.

Rowland mentioned the fees charged by each code group for approvals, and said: "The gypsum association, for example, pays thousands of dollars for approvals each year. And manufacturers have to go to each city to see how they're doing. All this costs money—but it shouldn't cost money to get approved in a government process. The costs ultimately go to the consumer."

He contended, too, that "to get approvals, you must be a friend to the building inspector. You show up at his meetings or you provide him an airplane ride to meetings, or your association has big hospitality suites at code meetings."

Dealing with building codes isn't the only governmental constraint builders face.

A Southern California builder contrasted federal loan guarantee officials in Los Angeles County with those in adjacent Orange County—two of the biggest home-building counties in the nation.

The Los Angeles FHA office is more involved with red tape than Orange County, said the builder. "The difference can be three or four weeks in processing time, during which your land money is tied up."

The builder calculated a four-week slippage in overhead alone can cost $85 per house.

Derby

Mrs. Georgia Sweet

Most of our older residents know Mrs. Belle Webb formerly of Derby, and will be sorry to hear she fell at her home in Mt. Sterling and was taken to Madison County Hospital. She will be unable to live alone and so is expecting to be admitted to a rest home soon. I will print the address as soon as it is available.

W. B. Spradlin is in charge of collections for the Pickaway County Heart Fund donations this month for the Darby Township area.

Our good neighbor John Musselman had the misfortune to break his leg recently. It is knitting fairly well now and we hope he will soon be able to shed that uncomfortable cast and get about again.

Mrs. Marvene Furness was able to return home from Madison County Hospital on Saturday, and although she is still pretty weak she tells me she is feeling much better now.

Mrs. Clara Wolf who was a patient at Madison County Hospital earlier this month is home now and feeling fine.

Mrs. Emma Steele who recently moved to Columbus, is also a patient at Madison County Hospital.

Dayton McCann was able to return home from Mt. Carmel Hospital on Sunday and is improving nicely now.

And on the bright side, Mrs. Shirley Wardell who spilled 'fish bathroom cleaner' in her eye last week tells us her eye is going to be all right.

Also, a special happy birthday to my good friend and neighbor, Mrs. Virgie Higgins who will be 88 years young on Tuesday of this week.

Anniversaries — None?? Can it be no one in this area ever got married the last week in February? If I'm wrong, let me hear about it!

Editor's Note: This, the fourth of five articles from the AP Special Assignment Team, details how a myriad of labor rules, building codes, regulations and restrictions helps drive housing costs up.

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
NORTHBROOK, Ill. (AP) — In a Chicago suburb, an architectural control commission required a builder to add a $135 nonfunctional gable to a garage roof.

In Kansas City, plumbers and plumbing contractors are still trying to overthrow in court a voters' referendum permitting builders to use cost-saving plastic pipe.

In Los Angeles County, it can take six weeks to process an application to build housing for sale under FHA mortgages—four weeks longer than it takes in the next county.

Narrow examples? Perhaps. Costly? Only in the tunes of hundreds of dollars each—per house.

But these and a myriad of other seemingly minor restraints—labor rules, building codes, regulations and restrictions—join such factors as tight money, high interest rates and soaring land costs in adding to the cost of housing.

For example, one expert says a single construction code change on spacing of 2x4s could save home buyers $100 million a year nationally.

Northbrook builder Richard C. Harwood, chairman of the National Association of Home Builders' codes committee, cited the consumer, government and labor as the principal constraints on building cost.

The consumer, says Harwood, is a "rather backward ignoramus who cannot appreciate technology and is afraid of change."

"Ten years ago when we started using roof trusses instead of rafters and joists," he said, "the consumer thought it was skimpy. Yet it could carry 40 per cent more load and could save $120 a house."

"He's afraid of plastic pipe, too. Yet HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) and FHA (Federal Housing Administration) and the code groups (which write model building codes) have tested it and approved."

Harwood said some communities have imposed through their building codes such requirements as a 300-square-foot living room, 150-square foot kitchen and 50-square foot bathroom to boost house sizes and thus the income level of buyers.

He said one inspector was asked how the footage requirements were arrived at and replied: "We think this is what it should be."

Harwood said code differences mean the same house that builds for $48,000 in Northbrook costs $1,200 more two miles away in Glenview, Ill.

The combination of labor union influence on codes in the Chicago area and union work rules themselves also add to costs, said Harwood.

He said a group of builders offered to help the city of Chicago develop a building code for rehabilitating old buildings. The agreement with plumbers to handle plastic pipe, and with electricians to handle flexible sheathed wiring instead of stringing all wiring through metal conduit.

"The city never went ahead with the project," Harwood said. "It was solely a labor constraint. It was not economically sound for the builder to go into rehab work because the code was too restrictive. The codes are creating slums and aggravating the housing situation."

Harwood estimates it costs $75 to $125 extra per house where plumbers and or codes prohibit use of the more flexible and easier to handle plastic pipe for drain, vent and waste systems.

The biggest recent battles in the code and union area have centered on plastic pipe. Builders almost unanimously say they can save money using plastic pipe. Plumbing unions, plumbing contractors and the Cast Iron Soil Pipe Institute, a trade association, have fought its approval in building codes.

A legal dispute in Kansas City, Mo., is a classic example of how complex and prolonged a building code battle can become.

The Kansas City Council, after months of hearings and study, adopted a revised city plumbing code Aug. 9, 1968, over opposition of local unions and a group they started called the Citizens Plumbing Committee.

The new code, allowing plastic pipe for some construction projects, was backed by a group called Citizens for an Up-To-Date Plumbing Code—strongly backed by the Home Builders Association, Chamber of Commerce and local chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

After the code was adopted, code opponents obtained 1,000 signatures and forced the code to a referendum. Kansas City voters approved the new code by a 6-to-5 margin.

Plumbers and plumbing contractors then went to court attacking the code. But a circuit court judge upheld the code last May.

Court fights are continuing, complicated by a dispute over plumbers' licensing that is involved in the new code. The case is expected eventually to reach the Missouri Supreme Court. Meantime, plumbers' supporters introduced a bill in the Missouri Legislature to ban use of plastic pipe throughout the state.

If the Kansas City plastic pipe dispute sounds confused, multiply it by the number of local governments in the United States, then multiply that by the number of structural components and separate elements that go into a house.

That would give an idea of how tangled the entire building code situation is in the United States.

In a few cases, however, states are reclaiming the responsibility. California and Ohio have passed laws giving the state inspection power over housing mass-produced in factories. And in Connecticut a statewide building code for all construction will go into effect in October.

Arctic Cold Stings East Half Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Arctic cold stung the eastern half of the nation today and pushed a wave of topcoat temperatures into a large part of the South.

The late-winter freeze eased up slightly in the northern plains, but the Weather Bureau said still another surge of bitter cold would spill into the northern Rockies and Plains by Friday morning.

Severe weather erupted over Georgia Wednesday night as the cold rolled across the Southeast. A tornado skipped through portions of Waycross, Ga., damaged 20 to 40 homes and injured two persons.

Numerous mobile homes and several businesses also were damaged in the twister in the south Georgia city. There was no official estimate of damage.

Temperatures fell into the middle 20s as the heavy weather passed. Readings in the teens extended down the eastern seaboard from New England through the Virginias. Zero temperatures ranged from northern Michigan into New England.

Snow flurries blew across the Great Lakes and into the Appalachians.

Clear skies were widespread elsewhere. Mild weather again dominated the Far West.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 10 below zero at Massena, N.Y., to 69 at Key West, Fla.

SKYJACK DETECTOR—A passenger walks between two vertical poles, a magnetic detection device, being tested in New York by Pan American Airways to spot would-be skyjackers.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck Jones avoided Saturday morning television for years as deftly as Road Runner eluded Wile E. Coyote, two animated characters he created.

“Actually, I was misunderstood,” said Jones, a movie animator with three Oscars and 14 Academy Award nominations.

“People thought I wouldn’t do Saturday morning television. But I objected to what was improper. Not just improper for children—but improper for me.”

“I objected to all that meaningless, faceless violence,” he said, “and I objected to hero characters who went out and did things without authorization from anybody.”

Now Jones is in a position to make some changes, and as ABC’s first executive director for children’s programming he intends to. Jones, until recently a producer-director for MGM’s animation department, will develop programs and program ideas in Hollywood for the network.

All three networks, stimulated by criticism and by the success of “Sesame Street,” for the first time have put executives in charge of children’s programming full time. The success—or failure of this venture will not be known until at least 1971, however, since the programs for next season were put into development months and even years ago.

Jones said that before agreeing to join ABC he laid down ground rules that all children’s programming, whether for Saturday morning, prime time, specials, news or sports, would come under his purview.

“It isn’t so much that I wanted to set down the rules as having rules by which I could function,” said Jones, a red-haired, youthful looking man in his late 50s.

“There are also good commercial reasons. One element can stimulate something in another facet. A special might inspire a series. A news piece on Expo ’70 might result in a special.”

Jones said one thing he wants to do is emphasize character development. “The best television programs have been programs about characters,” he said. “The best of all children’s literature has been about characters.”

One show in the works, “Curiosity Shop,” will combine live action with animation. Jones, a collector of odds and ends, said, “We’ll have things like an oscilloscope with a mind of its own. A big globe with ice at the top and it’s hot at the equator. A TV set so old it shows only old black and white shows. We’ll have things that interest kids and it will give us an opportunity to try out new ideas.”

Besides being creator of Road Runner and Pepe Le Pew and co-creator of Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck and Porky Pig, Jones produced the animated Pogo special and the Dr. Seuss specials.

Jones said, “Dr. Seuss said he’d never written a book for children. He’d only written for himself. Hopefully, like that, I can look at a story as a child does.”

“Not long ago I was walking along with my grandchild and he picked up a caterpillar and called it a ‘calerpittle.’ The natural thing for an adult to do is to correct a child. But when you look at it you realize it is a ‘calerpittle.’”

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Jacob K. Javits and George S. McGovern said today they will vote against confirmation of G. Harrold Carswell’s Supreme Court nomination because of dissatisfaction with his civil rights record.

Public opposition in the Senate to the Tallahassee, Fla., federal appeals judge reached 18 with the Javits-McGovern announcements. More senators are expected to come out against Carswell but indications still point to his confirmation.

McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat, considered a possible presidential aspirant in 1972, said in a prepared speech “I am appalled that our President would regard this nominee as a worthy appointment to the nation’s highest court.”

After studying Carswell’s record as a federal district court judge and later a member of the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals, McGovern said “I find that record to be distinguished largely by two qualities—racism and mediocrity.”

Javits became the third Republican to announce against President Nixon’s second attempt to name a Southerner to the Supreme Court seat vacated last spring by Abe Fortas.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, Javits’ New York colleague, said several weeks ago he would oppose the nomination and Massachusetts Sen. Edward W. Brooke, the only black member, announced Wednesday night he would vote no.

Javits, using less biting language in his prepared speech, said Carswell has shown “an insensitivity to the crucial issue of equal rights”—both as a private citizen and as a judge.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Carswell’s nomination by a 13-4 vote. Its majority report described his record in civil rights cases as one of balance and even-handedness.

McGovern and Javits both cited a white supremacy speech Carswell made in 1948 while running for the Georgia legislature and his participation in 1956 in formation of a private country club in Tallahassee to take over a municipal golf course threatened with desegregation.

Carswell renounced the white supremacy speech as abhorrent and obnoxious to him now. But McGovern and Javits said it is indicative of the philosophy the judge has followed.

McGovern added he considered Carswell less qualified than Clement F. Haynsworth, the South Carolina federal judge rejected last year by the Senate.

Brooke said in a Senate speech Wednesday night that Carswell’s nomination “will not serve the vital goal of bringing the nation closer together.” He said he has concluded on the basis of Carswell’s private and public record that he has continued to harbor racist views.

Hope To Slash Delay On Bridge
CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati officials said today they hope to be able to cut down some of the year delay in completion of the Interstate 471 bridge over the Ohio River to Newport, Ky.
Al Bischof, city expressway engineer, said Cincinnati “would do everything possible to speed up construction.”
The office of State Highway Director P. E. Masheter in Columbus, reported Tuesday completion of the bridge would not be until June, 1974.
Bischof said the delay was being caused by the intricate planning and construction of two approaches in the downtown area.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Jacob K. Javits and George S. McGovern said today they will vote against confirmation of G. Harrold Carswell’s Supreme Court nomination because of dissatisfaction with his civil rights record.

Public opposition in the Senate to the Tallahassee, Fla., federal appeals judge reached 18 with the Javits-McGovern announcements. More senators are expected to come out against Carswell but indications still point to his confirmation.

McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat, considered a possible presidential aspirant in 1972, said in a prepared speech “I am appalled that our President would regard this nominee as a worthy appointment to the nation’s highest court.”

After studying Carswell’s record as a federal district court judge and later a member of the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals, McGovern said “I find that record to be distinguished largely by two qualities—racism and mediocrity.”

Javits became the third Republican to announce against President Nixon’s second attempt to name a Southerner to the Supreme Court seat vacated last spring by Abe Fortas.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, Javits’ New York colleague, said several weeks ago he would oppose the nomination and Massachusetts Sen. Edward W. Brooke, the only black member, announced Wednesday night he would vote no.

Javits, using less biting language in his prepared speech, said Carswell has shown “an insensitivity to the crucial issue of equal rights”—both as a private citizen and as a judge.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Carswell’s nomination by a 13-4 vote. Its majority report described his record in civil rights cases as one of balance and even-handedness.

McGovern and Javits both cited a white supremacy speech Carswell made in 1948 while running for the Georgia legislature and his participation in 1956 in formation of a private country club in Tallahassee to take over a municipal golf course threatened with desegregation.

Carswell renounced the white supremacy speech as abhorrent and obnoxious to him now. But McGovern and Javits said it is indicative of the philosophy the judge has followed.

McGovern added he considered Carswell less qualified than Clement F. Haynsworth, the South Carolina federal judge rejected last year by the Senate.

Brooke said in a Senate speech Wednesday night that Carswell’s nomination “will not serve the vital goal of bringing the nation closer together.” He said he has concluded on the basis of Carswell’s private and public record that he has continued to harbor racist views.

Rep. Taft Challenges Rhodes To Take Stand On Draft Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rep. Robert Taft Jr. challenged Gov. James A. Rhodes, his opponent for the Republican senatorial nomination, Wednesday to take a position on President Nixon's proposal for an all-volunteer army.

Taft, who has accused Rhodes of sidestepping major issues, told the Preble County Republican Club in Eaton he has favored establishing a professional army since 1963.

Meanwhile, Rhodes, speaking in Toledo Wednesday, said he doesn't see any real differences on major issues between Taft and him.

But he said his schedule will not permit him to debate with Taft.

Rhodes was invited to participate in the Cleveland City Club's traditional pre-election debates, but a club spokesman said the governor has advised he cannot appear April 17 with other Senate candidates.

The spokesman said Rhodes has not replied to club queries about setting another date.

All other Republican Democratic candidates for the Senate have accepted the club's invitation to debate and gubernatorial aspirants of both parties, except Republican Atty. Gen. Paul Brown, have agreed to appear.

John J. Gilligan, who seeks the Democratic nod for governor, told a party gathering in Hillsboro Wednesday night that the issues in the current campaign are important to small towns and rural areas as well as big cities.

He said the soiled streams in Highland County are just as important a problem as the smoke-filled skies of industrial areas and the ghettos of Cleveland.

Taft said in Eaton Wednesday that a high-paid volunteer armed force could be implemented by 1971 to free funds for domestic problems and "remove the inequity placed upon the youth of our country."

He said men forced to serve in the military now at low pay "are actually paying a form of tax which subsidizes those in the society who do not serve."

Rhodes told newsmen in Toledo he would approve establishment of an Anti-Ballistics Missile (ABM) site in Ohio if the Secretary of Defense thought it was necessary.

The Ohio-Michigan area has been mentioned as a possible site for the ABM if Congress approves Nixon's program.

Pay TV Said OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has removed the last legal barrier to over-the-air pay television by letting stand a lower court decision upholding the Federal Communications Commission's power to allow the new service.

Turning down 7-1 the appeal of theater owners and another group opposing pay TV, the court threw out the challenge to the FCC's authority to license pay TV operations and contentions of the agency's rules discriminated against the poor and violated the right of free speech.

The U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia, ruling last September on a suit brought by the National Association of Theater Owners, said the FCC had authority under the broad grant of licensing power in the communications law.

It also ruled the FCC acted properly in setting up rules for pay TV development throughout the country.

Over-the-air pay TV, now only in the experimental stages, differs from cable television, which also is a subscription service, in using the public airwaves for transmitting its signal.

Professor Wants State Income Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University business research professor Wednesday told the House Ways and Means Committee it is unfortunate that Ohio does not have an income tax.

Dr. Frederick D. Stocker, director of the 1967 Ohio Tax

Study Commission, said a state income tax would provide a vehicle for giving a homestead tax exemption for the elderly. Other states, he said, give the overburdened tax payer relief by allowing him a credit against his income tax liability.

Professor Wants State Income Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University business research professor Wednesday told the House Ways and Means Committee it is unfortunate that Ohio does not have an income tax.

Dr. Frederick D. Stocker, director of the 1967 Ohio Tax

Study Commission, said a state income tax would provide a vehicle for giving a homestead tax exemption for the elderly. Other states, he said, give the overburdened tax payer relief by allowing him a credit against his income tax liability.

Cincinnati Police Hold Man In Connection With Slayings

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police early today charged a 19-year-old youth with the shooting of one man and were questioning him about two murders, including the slaying of a University of Cincinnati coed.

"We definitely consider the man the suspect in all three cases," said Capt. Carl Lind, chief of the Cincinnati Police Department's Crime Bureau.

Lind said the youth, whom he identified as Otis Fairbanks of suburban Walnut Hills, had been charged with armed robbery and intentional shooting in the Feb. 16 wounding of Vincent Leroy Johnson, 22, also of Walnut Hills.

Johnson was accosted near his home by a gunman who forced him to lie down, took his wallet and then shot him in the hands and head. Johnson is recovering from his wounds.

Earlier that day, the body of Jerry Carpenter, 22, of suburban Norwood, was found on a hillside in the Mount Adams section. Police said he had been pistol whipped and wounded fatally in the same manner.

A University of Cincinnati coed, Carol Sanders, 19, Akron, Ohio, was shot fatally through Palmer, 43, who weighs 385 pounds, is a former alcoholic and wrestler who turned evangelist. His home is Midwest City, Okla., but he considers the Rockport Baptist Church in Arnold, Mo., his home church. "God gave me size so I could draw people into his house," says Palmer. "People who have never darkened a church door in their life will come in to see the giant and when they come they hear the word of God." Palmer spends most of his time traveling, speaking at churches over the nation.

U.S. Postal Strike Said In Offing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's postal corporation plan ran into a congressional block Wednesday that a union official said "could be for fore-runner to the first national post strike in U.S. history."

Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., announced his House Post Office Committee will not consider the corporation plan and will not tie a postal pay raise to it unless he is overruled by his committee members.

He announced he has asked Chairman Gale McGee, D-Wyo., of the Senate Post Office Committee to begin conferences on a separate postal pay bill, not tied to postal reform, for Congress to send to President Nixon.

James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, said Nixon has personally told him he will veto any pay bill that is not part of a postal corporation or postal authority bill.

"What happened here today could be the forerunner to the U.S. history," Rademacher told newsmen. "I want you to quote first national postal strike in U.S. history," Rademacher told newsmen. "I want you to quote me on that. This is not a threat. My people have had all they can take."

"There's going to be a pay bill retroactive to last January," Rademacher said, "or there is going to be a national postal strike."

Ceiling Wanted On Health Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration Wednesday proposed ceilings on hospital and physician charges under the medicare and medicaid government health care programs.

John G. Veneman, undersecretary of health, education and welfare, disclosed administration plans to replace the present criteria of reasonable cost and reasonable charge for government reimbursement with negotiated or imposed ceilings.

"Neither the reasonable cost nor the reasonable charge criteria established in the law have provided opportunity for major cost-control efforts," Veneman said.

A University of Cincinnati coed, Carol Sanders, 19, Akron, Ohio, was shot fatally through the neck as she strolled through Burnet Woods, a city park adjacent to the campus, Jan. 29.

Lind said the three were shot with the same weapon, a .22 caliber pistol. The captain added that a gun confiscated from Fairbanks was to undergo ballistics tests today to determine if it matched with bullets taken from the victims.

Fairbanks, Lind said, tried to throw away the gun and a knife when confronted by police outside his home Wednesday night. Police had staked out his home and Fairbanks suffered head cuts during a struggle when they closed in. The weapons were recovered.

The slayings, including that of Miss Sanders, touched off a wave of alarm in the campus area. Students demanded more protection, better lighting on campus and male students provided an escort service for women.

Eye Divided California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — An assemblyman called today for creation of a commission to consider dividing California into two states.

The bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would create a nine-member commission called "The Commission on the Division of the State."

It may turn out to be legally impossible to have a Northern California and Southern California, said Brown. "The point is, we don't really know and it seems to me we ought to find out."

The division has been proposed several times since legislative reapportionment in 1965 gave Southern California a majority of seats in both Senate and Assembly.

Brown listed some of the possible political gains: two additional U.S. senators, at least one more congressman and possibly more total federal aid.

Mob Rampages, Burns California Bank

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Rampaging demonstrators protesting the "capitalist establishment" burned a Bank of America branch to a skeleton today while outnumbered police and firemen watched helplessly.

Police reinforcements were called in as about 800 protesters watched the flames burn out the inside of the one-story, brick building. Then a solid phalanx of 240 helmeted officers swept through the campus community, Isla Vista, dispersing the crowd without a confrontation.

Retreating protesters threw rocks at oncoming officers, injuring several but none seriously, deputies said.

Deputies said later the situation was "pretty much under control" and that officers were dispersing about 200 stragglers.

Ohio University Sets Appalachia Magazine

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University's School of Journalism is publishing a new magazine on Appalachia which will include studies of Athens area families.

The magazine, "Appalachia 70" was initiated by a business magazines class as a practical educational experience in magazine writing. The students are financing, promoting and writing the entire magazine under guidance of journalism Prof. Fred K. Paine.

scattered along streets and alleys.

Th one-square-mile Isla Vista community is populated mainly by apartment-dwelling students from the adjacent University of California campus six miles north of Santa Barbara.

The demonstrators, numbering 1,000 Wednesday night, said they were protesting the war in Vietnam, the "capitalist establishment" that financed it, and what a student spokesman called "increasing police repression aimed at stifling student dissent."

One demonstrator identifying himself as Kevin McElhinny, 17, San Jose, Calif., said the bank was under siege "because it was there, it was the biggest capitalist establishment thing around."

Another demonstrator who wouldn't give his name said the bank "is an example of American capitalism which is killing people all around the world and in the United States."

The outbreak of fires and window smashing followed a campus speech Wednesday afternoon by William M. Kunstler, a defense attorney in the Chicago riot trial. All the windows of the same bank branch were smashed in the start of the trouble Tuesday afternoon.

Sheriff James W. Webster had described the situation as "completely out of hand" Wednesday evening. He asked Gov. Ronald Reagan for National Guard troops, but Guardsmen were not mobilized.

The bank fire was set by several protesters who rolled a gasoline-soaked trash bin in through a smashed window, and set it ablaze against a wall, deputies said. Students from a nearby fraternity put out the blaze, but protesters fired it up again just before midnight.

Before the sweep of the area, helicopter officers using a bullhorn and a powerful spotlight ordered the demonstrators to disperse, but very few did.

Shortly before the bank fire, demonstrators overturned and burned a patrol car after the two outnumbered deputies fired. It was the second patrol car burning of the three-day disturbance.

The bank manager said an undisclosed amount of money was in the bank's fireproof vault and he did not expect it was damaged.

2 Men Indicted For Tax Evasion

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two men were indicted by a federal grand jury here Wednesday on charges of income tax evasion.

Fred W. Witchey, of Barberton, was indicted on four counts. The indictment charged that he owed the government $23,978 in taxes for the years 1963 through 1966.

Anthony E. Lambos, of Massillon, was named in a three-count indictment which charged that he owed $31,664 for the years 1963 through 1965.

The government charged that Witchey and Lambos evaded taxes by reporting less income than they actually received.

5th Man Under Indictment In Yablonski Triple Slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Silous Huddleston, president of a Tennessee United Mine Workers union local, was to be arraigned today as a fifth conspirator in the slaying of UMW in-surgent Joseph A. Yablonski.

Huddleston, 61, of LaFollette, Tenn., was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in its fourth week of hearings here to investigate the Yablonski slaying. Huddleston was held in Cuyahoga County Jail in downtown Cleveland under $250,000 bond.

The first four persons indicted by the grand jury on conspiracy charges were from Greater Cleveland and included Huddleston's daughter, Annette Gilly, 29, and her husband, Paul E. Gilly, 36.

The grand jury charged that Huddleston and the Gillys controlled a special murder fund in an alleged six-month murder plot. The jury also said Huddleston gave advice to other conspirators.

Huddleston, a retired miner and unpaid president of UMW Local 3228, a pensioner local in La Follette, was arrested outside the federal building here after appearing before the grand jury for a second time, and again refusing to answer questions.

"I'll be glad to get home," the gray-haired father of 11 told newsmen moments before his arrest. "I don't know how I got dragged into all this."

All those indicted have been charged with conspiring to interfere with the rights of a union member and to obstruct justice by killing Yablonski.

Indicted with the Gillys were Claude E. Vealey, 26, and Aubran W. Martin. All four are charged with murder by Pennsylvania authorities in the deaths of Yablonski, 59, his wife Margaret, 57, and their daughter Charlotte, 25.

Eye Divided California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — An assemblyman called today for creation of a commission to consider dividing California into two states.

The bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would create a nine-member commission called "The Commission on the Division of the State."

It may turn out to be legally impossible to have a Northern California and Southern California, said Brown. "The point is, we don't really know and it seems to me we ought to find out."

The division has been proposed several times since legislative reapportionment in 1965 gave Southern California a majority of seats in both Senate and Assembly.

Brown listed some of the possible political gains: two additional U.S. senators, at least one more congressman and possibly more total federal aid.

Mob Rampages, Burns California Bank

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Rampaging demonstrators protesting the "capitalist establishment" burned a Bank of America branch to a skeleton today while outnumbered police and firemen watched helplessly.

Police reinforcements were called in as about 800 protesters watched the flames burn out the inside of the one-story, brick building. Then a solid phalanx of 240 helmeted officers swept through the campus community, Isla Vista, dispersing the crowd without a confrontation.

Retreating protesters threw rocks at oncoming officers, injuring several but none seriously, deputies said.

Deputies said later the situation was "pretty much under control" and that officers were dispersing about 200 stragglers.

Ohio University Sets Appalachia Magazine

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University's School of Journalism is publishing a new magazine on Appalachia which will include studies of Athens area families.

The magazine, "Appalachia 70" was initiated by a business magazines class as a practical educational experience in magazine writing. The students are financing, promoting and writing the entire magazine under guidance of journalism Prof. Fred K. Paine.

scattered along streets and alleys.

The one-square-mile Isla Vista community is populated mainly by apartment-dwelling students from the adjacent University of California campus six miles north of Santa Barbara.

The demonstrators, numbering 1,000 Wednesday night, said they were protesting the war in Vietnam, the "capitalist establishment" that financed it, and what a student spokesman called "increasing police repression aimed at stifling student dissent."

One demonstrator identifying himself as Kevin McElhinny, 17, San Jose, Calif., said the bank was under siege "because it was there, it was the biggest capitalist establishment thing around."

Another demonstrator who wouldn't give his name said the bank "is an example of American capitalism which is killing people all around the world and in the United States."

The outbreak of fires and window smashing followed a campus speech Wednesday afternoon by William M. Kunstler, a defense attorney in the Chicago riot trial. All the windows of the same bank branch were smashed in the start of the trouble Tuesday afternoon.

Sheriff James W. Webster had described the situation as "completely out of hand" Wednesday evening. He asked Gov. Ronald Reagan for National Guard troops, but Guardsmen were not mobilized.

The bank fire was set by several protesters who rolled a gasoline-soaked trash bin in through a smashed window, and set it ablaze against a wall, deputies said. Students from a nearby fraternity put out the blaze, but protesters fired it up again just before midnight.

Before the sweep of the area, helicopter officers using a bullhorn and a powerful spotlight ordered the demonstrators to disperse, but very few did.

Shortly before the bank fire, demonstrators overturned and burned a patrol car after the two outnumbered deputies fled. It was the second patrol car burning of the three-day disturbance.

The Children's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

"Martha Matilda O'Toole" by Jim Copp, pictures by Steven Kellog. Martha Matilda had a good forgettery. She started out for school empty-handed and, well, wearing very little but her hair ribbons. Time and again she had to return home — for her slate, her pen and even her dress. Finally, fully clothed and equipped, she arrived at school only to find that it was Sunday. What do you think she did? Steven Kellog has exhibited his etchings and paintings in eastern cities. Gently colored sketches portray Martha Matilda as the dreamer she remains, to the very end of the book. Attractive in text and illustrations. Picture Book.

"The Cat and the Fiddler" by Jacky Jeter, pictures by Lionel Kalish. One morning a fiddler came to town, with his very special cat. When he would play his fiddle, the cat would dance, twirling and bobbing to

Viet Police Arrest Assemblyman

SAIGON (AP) — After a wild melee with foreign and Vietnamese newsmen, national police tonight arrested a National Assembly member convicted of pro-Communist activity and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

The government in a surprise move agreed to a second trial for Assemblyman Tran Ngoc Chau, a 46-year-old foe of President Nguyen Van Thieu. Then several platoons of police surrounded the National Assembly building where Chau had been holed up for 80 hours while a military court tried and sentenced him in absentia.

About 50 newsmen were present, most of them jammed into the second-floor office where Chau had camped out.

At first, there was only minor scuffling as police made two uncertain efforts to clear the corridor. Several times they asked Chau and the newsmen to leave the room, but he refused, saying, "Only the House speaker can order a congressman around."

Then the police went into action.

"They're clearing the room, one by one. I can't hang on much longer," Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported by telephone, and then was cut off.

Police yanked the telephone Arnett was using from the wall, and plainclothesmen kicked and pushed television crewmen and other newsmen.

"The police were kicking and shouting; it was a really wild scene," Arnett reported.

Police dragged Chau from the building, threw him into a Jeep and drove swiftly off with him.

Chau had been tried and sentenced on Wednesday but the government waited more than 24 hours to arrest him. He was convicted of illegal contacts with an admitted Communist agent, his brother, who has been in prison since 1968. Chau said the contacts were of a "brotherly" nature and that the government was trying to muzzle anti-Communist opposition to Thieu.

The U.S. Embassy has made no public comment on the case, but American officials here are known to be deeply concerned about it. They fear Chau's imprisonment will increase anti-Communist opposition to Thieu's government.

Start Drug Education In 1st Grade

LAREDO, Tex (AP) — Convinced that today's glue sniffer may become tomorrow's narcotics addict, the Laredo school system will launch next month an antidrug program starting with the first grade.

Financed by a federal grant of $9,000, two dozen teachers spent months collecting information on the subject and drawing up classroom guide material.

"We had nothing to go by," Asst. School Supt. Vidal Trevino told an interviewer. "It's a completely new area."

Trevino agrees with a physician adviser to the project who says that by the time a child reaches junior-high-school age indoctrination in the dangers of drugs may come too late.

"The glue sniffers and the gasoline sniffers are already started," the physician said. "And that's where it all begins."

Trevino said no classes would be devoted entirely to drug hazards. Instead, the subject will be worked into present standard courses.

First, second and third graders will learn about the enticing bottles in the family medicine cabinet. Fourth through sixth graders will receive instruction on the dangers of glue and marijuana.

The emphasis then will turn to heroin, LSD, amphetamines, barbiturates and related drugs and, as one teacher put it, "whatever else is in vogue."

The pilot project begins with 5,300 pupils. Next fall it will include all of the school districts 17,000 youngsters.

Thieu and highly regarded as a province chief in the Mekong Delta, has charged that the U.S. government cooperated with Thieu and in effect betrayed him after he worked behind the scenes in an attempt to bring about a reconciliation of the Saigon regime and the Viet Cong.

CHANGES HER MIND — Mrs. George Romney, wife of the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, who said she would not run for the U.S. Senate in Michigan "unless I am drafted," wasn't drafted, so she announced her candidacy anyhow. The Democratic candidate is Sen. Philip Hart.

The Children's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

"Martha Matilda O'Toole" by Jim Copp, pictures by Steven Kellogg. Martha Matilda had a good forgettery. She started out for school empty-handed and, well, wearing very little but her hair ribbons. Time and again she had to return home — for her slate, her pen and even her dress. Finally, fully clothed and equipped, she arrived at school only to find that it was Sunday. What do you think she did? Steven Kellogg has exhibited his etchings and paintings in eastern cities. Gently colored sketches portray Martha Matilda as the dreamer she remains, to the very end of the book. Attractive in text and illustrations. Picture Book.

"The Cat and the Fiddler" by Jacky Jeter, pictures by Lionel Kalish. One morning a fiddler came to town, with his very special cat. When he would play his fiddle, the cat would dance, twirling and bobbing to the music. Of course all the townspeople came to watch and soon the king heard of this remarkable pair. First he tried to buy the cat, then he snatched the cat from its master. On command, the creature danced for the king, soon all the court were following him. Alas, they could not stop at will. The cat bewitched them into incessant dancing. Unusual drawings are done in pastels and show strength of movement. Many figures give an impression of large size. Picture Book.

"Donkey — Donkey" by Roger Duvoisin. For very young listeners, Roger Duvoisin, one of the best writers for children, has fashioned this simple tale. Donkey — Donkey wears his ears this way and that, trying to satisfy all his friends. This book is good for teaching children to identify barnyard animals. Picture Book.

"Funny Bags" by Petsy Pflug. Betsy Pflug suggests that with a brown paper bag, you can be a magician. You can change it into a dog, as a knight or dress your doll as a hula dancer. You can make puppets, totem poles, hats, masks. Good for the convalescent child, or for hurried Scout Leaders, this one has excellent ideas and presents them well. Grades 4-6.

"Alphabet of Puppy Care" by Lisl Weil. Planning to buy a puppy? Or do you already have one? In either case, Lisl Weil coats her knowledgeable advice on puppy care with clever cartoons. She includes important subjects such as grooming, obedience and eating habits. But most of all her book is designed to help youngsters appreciate their pets and to give them a sense of responsibility. Grades 4-6.

"AFL Dream Backfield" by Howard Liss. Howard Liss, who has written almost thirty books about sports, has chosen here his favorite AFL footballers. He backs up his selections with fascinating accounts of key games and records which are indisputable. Why, for instance, does he choose Len Dawson as quarterback on his dream team? After all, Joe Namath has broken several records and has shown leadership on the field. Records show that Namath has never won the passing championship of the AFL. Dawson won in 1962, 1964, 1965 and 1968. Other members of the Liss first string are Lance Alworth, Cookie Gilchrist, Abner Haynes. Second stringers are George Blanda, Don Maynard, Jim Nance and Paul Lowe. If you're not an avid football fan, it may take a few pages' reading before you catch on to the particular language of the game. But if you know football, you'll relish this book, agree and argue with the choices of Howard Liss. Boys and their dads can share this one. Grades 4-6.

Next week this column will be devoted to books purchased especially for teenagers.

Viet Police Arrest Assemblyman

SAIGON (AP) — After a wild melee with foreign and Vietnamese newsmen, national police tonight arrested a National Assembly member convicted of pro-Communist activity and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

The government in a surprise move agreed to a second trial for Assemblyman Tran Ngoc Chau, a 46-year-old foe of President Nguyen Van Thieu. Then several platoons of police surrounded the National Assembly building where Chau had been holed up for 80 hours while a military court tried and sentenced him in absentia.

About 50 newsmen were present, most of them jammed into the second-floor office where Chau had camped out.

At first, there was only minor scuffling as police made two uncertain efforts to clear the corridor. Several times they asked Chau and the newsmen to leave the room, but he refused, saying, "Only the House speaker can order a congressman around."

Then the police went into action.

"They're clearing the room, one by one. I can't hang on much longer," Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported by telephone, and then was cut off.

Police yanked the telephone Arnett was using from the wall, and plainclothesmen kicked and pushed television crewmen and other newsmen.

"The police were kicking and shouting; it was a really wild scene," Arnett reported.

Police dragged Chau from the building, threw him into a Jeep and drove swiftly off with him.

Chau had been tried and sentenced on Wednesday but the government waited more than 24 hours to arrest him. He was convicted of illegal contacts with an admitted Communist agent, his brother, who has been in prison since 1968. Chau said the contacts were of a "brotherly" nature and that the government was trying to muzzle anti-Communist opposition to Thieu.

The U.S. Embassy has made no public comment on the case, but American officials here are known to be deeply concerned about it. They fear Chau's imprisonment will increase anti-Communist opposition to Thieu's government.

Chau, once a close friend of

Start Drug Education In 1st Grade

LAREDO, Tex (AP) — Convinced that today's glue sniffer may become tomorrow's narcotic addict, the Laredo school system will launch next month an antidrug program starting with the first grade.

Financed by a federal grant of $9,000, two dozen teachers spent months collecting information on the subject and drawing up classroom guide material.

"We had nothing to go by," Asst. School Supt. Vidal Trevino told an interviewer. "It's a completely new area."

Trevino agrees with a physician adviser to the project who says that by the time a child reaches junior-high-school age indoctrination in the dangers of drugs may come too late.

"The glue sniffers and the gasoline sniffers are already started," the physician said. "And that's where it all begins."

Trevino said no classes would be devoted entirely to drug hazards. Instead, the subject will be worked into present standard courses.

First, second and third graders will learn about the enticing bottles in the family medicine cabinet. Fourth through sixth graders will receive instruction on the dangers of glue and marijuana.

The emphasis then will turn to heroin, LSD, amphetamines, barbiturates and related drugs and, as one teacher put it, "whatever else is in vogue."

The pilot project begins with 5,300 pupils. Next fall it will include all of the school districts 17,000 youngsters.

CHANGES HER MIND — Mrs. George Romney, wife of the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, who said she would not run for the U.S. Senate in Michigan "unless I am drafted," wasn't drafted, so she announced her candidacy anyhow. The Democratic candidate is Sen. Philip Hart.

Nixon Promises Governors To Fulfill Commitments

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors his administration will make good on past—as well as future—federal commitments in the drive to improve the American environment.

The President also made a plea for support for his welfare reform and tax sharing proposals during a speech to the National Governors Conference Wednesday.

The governors were due on Capitol Hill today for a series of conferences with members of the House and Senate on current legislation. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was the scheduled speaker at today's windup business session.

Keynoting the three-day conference, Nixon said improvement of the environment is top priority business of his administration.

In environment and in other fields, Nixon said, states and governors have sometimes relied on federal promises that went unmet by federal money. That will not happen again, he pledged.

"We are not going to make promises in this field that we are not able to fund," Nixon said. He said he considers his $10 billion, five-year program for water pollution control adequate to the need. "If it is not adequate we will go back for more funds."

"We've made a commitment," he said.

Nixon promised reimbursement to states that already have spent funds under the 1966 Clean Water Act.

Violence Hits In Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP) — Three persons, including a candidate for Congress from the government's Revolutionary party, were putting up campaign posters Wednesday night when terrorists in two passing cars sprayed them with gunfire and killed them.

It was the second such shooting in as many days in advance of presidential and congressional elections Sunday.

Police said the dead candidate was Rodolfo Romero Ramirez. The other two victims were not immediately identified.

On Tuesday, terrorists shot and wounded Walfredo Orlando del Valle, 40, president of the election council, as he was riding in a car. The shots broke his glasses and hit his nose.

There have been numerous other acts of terrorism in recent weeks, and the government blames extremists of both the left and right. Observers say the goal of both factions is to disrupt the elections.

Namath Narrates Story Of Life

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, quarterback of the New York Jets professional football team, has agreed to act as narrator when the New York Philharmonic introduces next May a musical work based on his life.

The work was composed by Richard Hyman, with lyrics by Dick Schaap, Namath's ghost writer.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — An assemblyman called today for creation of a commission to consider dividing California into two states.

The bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would create a nine-member commission called "The Commission on the Division of the State."

It may turn out to be legally impossible to have a Northern California and Southern California, said Brown. "The point is, we don't really know and it seems to me we ought to find out."

The division has been proposed several times since legislative reapportionment in 1965 gave Southern California a majority of seats in both Senate and Assembly.

Brown listed some of the possible political gains: two additional U.S. senators, at least one more congressman and possibly more total federal aid.

Mob Rampages, Burns California Bank

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Rampaging demonstrators protesting the "capitalist establishment" burned a Bank of America branch to a skeleton today while outnumbered police and firemen watched helplessly.

Police reinforcements were called in as about 800 protesters watched the flames burn out the inside of the one-story, brick building. Then a solid phalanx of 240 helmeted officers swept through the campus community, Isla Vista, dispersing the crowd without a confrontation.

Retreating protesters threw rocks at oncoming officers, injuring several but none seriously, deputies said.

Deputies said later the situation was "pretty much under control" and that officers were dispersing about 200 stragglers.

Ohio University Sets Appalachia Magazine

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University's School of Journalism is publishing a new magazine on Appalachia which will include studies of Athens area families.

The magazine, "Appalachia 70" was initiated by a business magazines class as a practical educational experience in magazine writing. The students are financing, promoting and writing the entire magazine under guidance of journalism Prof. Fred K. Paine.

scattered along streets and alleys. The one-square-mile Isla Vista community is populated mainly by apartment-dwelling students from the adjacent University of California campus six miles north of Santa Barbara.

The demonstrators, numbering 1,000 Wednesday night, said they were protesting the war in Vietnam, the "capitalist establishment" that financed it, and what a student spokesman called "increasing police repression aimed at stifling student dissent."

One demonstrator identifying himself as Kevin McElhinny, 17, San Jose, Calif., said the bank was under siege "because it was there, it was the biggest capitalist establishment thing around."

Another demonstrator who wouldn't give his name said the bank "is an example of American capitalism which is killing people all around the world and in the United States."

The outbreak of fires and window smashing followed a campus speech Wednesday afternoon by William M. Kunstler, a defense attorney in the Chicago riot trial. All the windows of the same bank branch were smashed in the start of the trouble Tuesday afternoon.

Sheriff James W. Webster had described the situation as "completely out of hand" Wednesday evening. He asked Gov. Ronald Reagan for National Guard troops, but Guardsmen were not mobilized.

The bank fire was set by several protesters who rolled a gas-

5th Man Under Indictment In Yablonski Triple Slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Silous Huddleston, president of a Tennessee United Mine Workers union local, was to be arraigned today as a fifth conspirator in the slaying of UMW insurgent Joseph A. Yablonski.

Huddleston, 61, of LaFollette, Tenn., was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in its fourth week of hearings here to investigate the Yablonski slaying. Huddleston was held in Cuyahoga County Jail in downtown Cleveland under $250,000 bond.

The first four persons indicted by the grand jury on conspiracy charges were from Greater Cleveland and included Huddleston's daughter, Annette Gilly, 29, and her husband, Paul E. Gilly, 36.

The grand jury charged that Huddleston and the Gillys controlled a special murder fund in an alleged six-month murder plot. The jury also said Huddleston gave advice to other conspirators.

Huddleston, a retired miner and unpaid president of UMW Local 3228, a pensioners local in LaFollette, was arrested outside the federal building here after appearing before the grand jury for a second time, and again refusing to answer questions.

"I'll be glad to get home," the gray-haired father of 11 told newsmen moments before his arrest. "I don't know how I got dragged into all this."

All those indicted have been charged with conspiring to interfere with the rights of a union member and to obstruct justice by killing Yablonski.

Indicted with the Gillys were Claude E. Vealey, 26, and Aubran W. Martin. All four are charged with murder by Pennsylvania authorities in the deaths of Yablonski, 59, his wife Margaret, 57, and their daughter Charlotte, 25.

The Yablonskis were found dead in their Clarksville, Pa., home Jan. 5, less than a month after Yablonski lost a bitterly contested election to incumbent UMW President W.A. "Tony" Boyle.

Duke Blue Devils Rated Dark Horse In Tourney

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Duke's Blue Devils would love to upset the apocryphal in next week's Atlantic Coast Conference championship basketball tournament at Charlotte against nationally ranked South Carolina, North Carolina and N.C. State.

The unranked Blue Devils stamped themselves as the tourney dark horse by upsetting the 14th-ranked N.C. State Wolfpack Wednesday night 71-69 on free throws by Don Blackman and Dick Devenzio in the last 30 seconds.

The Blue Devils did it on the road, too. Not only that, but they didn't collapse after blowing an 18-point lead at 35-17 and falling behind by four points midway in the second half.

Third-ranked St. Bonaventure turned back Canisius 91-68 at Olean and 19th-ranked North Carolina routed Virginia Tech 98-70 at Chapel Hill in other games involving teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty.

Bowling Green shaded Western Michigan 75-74 at home to keep alive its hopes of tying Ohio U. for the Mid-American Conference title.

Ohio U. whacked Chicago Loyola 93-70, Rhode Island downed Providence 81-74, Niagara took Syracuse 91-83, North Texas beat St. Louis 86-82, West Virginia got by Maryland 83-78 and Duquesne walloped Xavier of Ohio 105-63.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina closed out his home court career for the Tar Heels by tossing in 28 points and grabbing 13 rebounds against Virginia Tech. He received a standing ovation from the crowd in the closing minutes.

Big Bob Lanier led NCAA-bound St. Bonaventure to its eighth straight victory with 23 points against Canisius although he sat out most of the game because of foul trouble.

Niagara, also NCAA-bound, closed its home season by opening a 15-point lead and withstanding a Syracuse rally. Calvin Murphy of Niagara fouled out with about two minutes left after scoring 24 points. Jim Penix's two free throws with nine seconds to play gave Bowling Green a 75-72 lead and offset Leroy Dixon's basket for Western Michigan as the buzzer sounded.

John Fultz scored 26 points for Rhode Island as the Rams beat Providence twice in the same season for the first time in 13 years.

Lehigh qualified for the Middle-Atlantic Conference playoffs on Friday by shading Lafayette 86-83 in a special playoff game

Maravich Leads Tigers Into Action At New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Maravich, the All-American and all-time college basketball scoring leader, will finally get a chance to show off his droopy socks and acrobatic antics in Madison Square Garden.

The 6-foot-5 guard who has scored over 3,400 points in his three-year career and is currently hitting at a 47 per game clip, will lead his Louisiana State teammates into the 33rd annual National Invitation Tournament.

The NIT selection committee chose the Tigers, Southeastern Conference runnersup, along with Marquette, Georgia Tech and St. John's, N.Y., Wednesday with a dozen spots still to be filled for the post season tourney that opens March 13.

Manhattan, Georgetown, D.C. Army, Duquesne and runnersup from assorted undecided conference races are other teams expected to be named. More selections are expected today.

Maravich, who is famous for his behind-the-back passes and socks which drop around his ankles when he plays, has helped LSU, coached by his father

Press, to a 17-3 record with three games remaining.

Marquette, ranked eighth by The Associated Press, is led by junior guard Dean Meminger. The 19-3 Warriors spurned an NCAA at-large bid Tuesday because of a playing site dispute, virtually assuring them of the NIT spot. Marquette, participating in its fourth NIT, lost the 1967 final to Southern Illinois.

Georgia Tech, 16-8, will be making only its second tourney appearance ever. The Engineers played in the NCAA tournament in 1960. Rich Yuncus, 6-9 center, the 10th leading scorer in the nation with a 29.2 average, heads the Georgia Tech cast.

St. John's, 16-7, has gone to the NCAA the last three years but this will be the Redmen's 19th appearance here, having won four championships, the last in 1965.

The Redmen have a balanced scoring attack and tough defense. Joe DePre and 6-11 Bill Paulz are St. John's leading point-makers.

Handful Of Obscure Golfers To Make Bid At Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — While the mass attention centered on the big names of the game today in the first round of the $150,000 Doral Open golf tournament, a handful of young men set out in dreary isolation attempting to write an end to their obscurity.

If recent history is any standard, the time may be ripe.

Four of the five winners on the Florida tour last year were scoring their first professional victory. And a number of young players are knocking on the door right now, ready to move in at any time.

Among them are Grier Jones, John Miller, Bert Greene and Hale Irwin.

Many of the established players say that quartet could include the next big winner on the tour, with Jones and Miller the top candidates.

All have had their day in the limelight, but none has yet broken through to a victory.

Jones won rookie of the year honors last season with earnings of more than $30,000. Miller owns the low round of the year, 61, and first caught the public fancy as a 17-year-old amateur in the 1966 U.S. Open.

Irwin lost in a playoff to Billy Casper for the title in the Los Angeles Open. Greene finished second by a stroke in the rich Westchester Classic last year and won last week's Lo Lagartos Open, an unofficial event.

Jones, a powerful, slope-shouldered 23-year-old from Kansas, generally is regarded as the most promising of the group.

"There's so much to learn out here," he said. "You just keep trying."

Miller, a lanky, blond 22-year-old, said the second season is easier than the first.

Alcindor Leads Bucks Over Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lew Alcindor did the Baltimore Bullets in twice.

The big rookie sank a foul shot with 14 seconds left in Milwaukee's 115-113 National Basketball Association victory over Baltimore Wednesday night and also cost the injury-plagued Bullets the services of guard Kevin Loughery.

The victory moved Milwaukee to within six games of idle, first-place New York in the Eastern Division and increased the Bucks' lead to 5½ games over third-place Baltimore.

Loughery was sent to the hospital for X-rays after he caught one of Alcindor's knees in the chest. According to a preliminary report, he may have suffered a fractured rib. Because of injuries, the Bullets dressed only eight players for the game.

Boston crushed San Diego 147-124, Philadelphia whipped Detroit 122-105, Chicago topped San Francisco 112-104 and Seattle downed Atlanta 120-112 in other NBA action.

Trailing 91-75 late in the third quarter, Milwaukee fought to ahead 111-110 before going ahead on baskets by Flynn Robinson and Greg Smith. Baltimore's Earl Monroe then hit a field goal before Alcindor's free throw. Monroe missed a 15-foot jumper at the buzzer.

Alcindor scored 27 points and Monroe 25.

Dizzy Dean Denies Part In Gambling

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)— Jerome "Dizzy" Dean says he "never received one dime" from an interstate betting operation which resulted in his being named by a federal grand jury.

Dean, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, was cited as a co-conspirator but not charged as a defendant in an indictment returned in Detroit which accused 10 men of violating federal law in nationwide sports gambling.

Sports Board Eyes 3-Class Grid Playoffs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio High School Athletic Association Board of Control will decide at its next meeting in March whether to sanction three-class state football playoffs.

Ohio football coaches officers presented a plan for Class AAA, AA and A semifinals and final playoffs to the board Wednesday. Football is the only sport in Ohio which does not have a post-season tournament.

"There can't be too many legitimate complaints against this plan," Commissioner Harold Meyer told coaches President Bill Shunkwiler of Warren Harding High School.

The coaches proposed the state be divided into four regions for each class. Member schools of each region would vote their No. 1 team after the ninth game of the regular season.

The top teams in each region would meet in northern and southern playoffs in the semifinals the first weekend after regular season games are completed. The winners would clash the following weekend for the three class crowns.

"We think our sport deserves to have a state playoff championship, too," coaches First Vice President Abe Bryan of Steubenville High School said. "Besides, it would bring the OHSAA more revenue."

Only mythical poll champions are decided now. The Associated Press conducts ratings among a state-wide board of sports writers and broadcasters to decide its Class AA and A football kings.

The board approved—at least for one year—a three-day State Basketball Tournament in Ohio State's St. John Arena when the three-class system goes into effect in the 1970-71 school year.

The state event will start Thursday night with the Class A semifinals, followed by the Class AA semis Friday and the Class AAA semis Friday night. All three title games will be played Saturday.

The board ruled Alexander of Athens County out of the Class A Rio Grande Sectional Basketball Tournament after Alexander used two ineligible freshmen players in a victory over Eastern of Meigs County last weekend.

The two freshmen had played in 19 regular season varsity, freshmen and reserve games, one over the limit, Eastern was reinstated in the tournament.

Indians No Longer Planning Trades

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)— Manager Alvin Dark of the Cleveland Indians says he no longer is trying to trade either first baseman Tony Horton or left fielder Ken Harrelson.

"Neither is available for trade anymore," Dark said Wednesday. "Nobody is willing to give up what Horton or Harrelson is worth. I'm certainly not going to trade Horton just because he's a holdout."

Zane Trace Tops Adena, 77-32

Standing room only was the rule as Zane Trace ripped Adena, 77-32, in the semi-final round of the Class A Sectional Tournament at Chillicothe Wednesday night.

Playing before a packed house, ticket lines had formed two hours before the doors opened, the Pioneers showed the fans why they were picked top team in the state.

The first quarter was fairly even as the Warriors and the Pioneers went after each other and the stanza closed with Trace holding an 18-13 advantage.

Zane Trace opened the flood gates in the second stanza scoring 28-markers while limiting Adena to a meager five. The third stanza was more of the same with the Warriors getting six points and the Pioneers put 20 more on the books to take a 66-24 lead at the start of the fourth quarter. The fourth period was played at a slower pace and at the final buzzer the scoreboard read 77-32 with Zane Trace on the big end of the total.

JEFF Reisinger, Trace's Mr. Everything, again paced the Pioneers with 22-points. Dave Hammond was close behind with 21-markers for Trace, Chip Maxwell added 12, Dick Damron had eight, Tom Davis six, Brad Kerns four, Joe Park two and Marlin Valentine had two.

Chuck Sowers was the only member of the Warrior squad to hit the double figures totaling 13-points in the losing effort.

Rebounding honors went to the Pioneers pulling down 34-misses while the Warriors managed to grab only 16. Reisinger garnered 12-rebs and Hammond and Maxwell picked off six and five respectively. Sowers led Adena grabbing four.

Adena committed 26 turnovers in the fray, mostly due to the Pioneers pressing defense, and Zane Trace misplayed the ball on 10 occasions.

Trace will see action in the final round at 7:30 p.m. meeting the winner of the Paint Valley-Bishop Flaget victory.

BG - Ohio U Clash Set Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Saturday's the big one," Bowling Green basketball Coach Bob Conibear said, looking ahead to a Mid-American Conference title match with Ohio University.

The Falcons won a chance to grab a share of the MAC title by edging Western Michigan 75-74 in a cliffhanger Wednesday night.

The win gave Bowling Green a 7-2 league mark. Ohio U. with an 8-1 record, already is assured of at least a tie for the conference crown.

Conibear said the Bobcats will have an advantage by playing on their home court Saturday.

But he noted that the only game Ohio has lost in Athens the past two seasons was to Bowling Green last year.

Wednesday night's game was won at the foul line, with the Falcons cashing in on several one-and-one free throw situations in the final minutes.

Venturing outside the MAC, Ohio University whipped Loyola

of Chicago 93-70 Wednesday night and Kent State fell to Marshall, 93-70.

The Bobcat-Loyola game was close until Ohio ended the first half with 12 straight points and started the second period with nine in a row to take a commanding lead. Ken Kowell led the Bobcats with 23 points and Walt Robertson paced Loyola with 19.

Marshall grabbed a seven-point halftime advantage and beat back a late Kent State rally to post its eighth win in 22 outings. Russell Lee of the Thundering Herd and Kent's Bruce Burden shared scoring honors with 21 points apiece.

Duquesne, hoping for a National Invitational Tournament berth, walloped smaller Xavier 105-63. At one stage, the Ducks netted 21 straight points, Jarrett Durham led the winners with 25 points while Xavier was paced by Rich Reder with 14.

John Duncan netted 22 points and collected 23 rebounds as Kentucky Wesleyan humiliated Akron 88-53. Akron was led by Leonard Paul with 19.

Rio Grande closed out its regular season by outscoring Urbana 120-108. Bob Mabry of Rio finished the season with a career total of 2,218 rebounds, an NAIA record.

for Rhode Island as the Rams beat Providence twice in the same season for the first time in 13 years.

Lehigh qualified for the Middle-Atlantic Conference playoffs on Friday by shading Lafayette 86-83 in a special playoff game at Allentown, Pa. Louisville warmed up for its crucial MVC game with Drake Saturday by crushing Georgetown, Ky. 107-85 behind Mike Grosso's career high of 33 points.

The Children's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

"Martha Matilda O'Toole" by Jim Copp, pictures by Steven Kellogg. Martha Matilda had a good forgettery. She started out for school empty-handed and, well, wearing very little but her hair ribbons. Time and again she had to return home — for her slate, her pen and even her dress. Finally, fully clothed and equipped, she arrived at school only to find that it was Sunday. What do you think she did? Steven Kellogg has exhibited his etchings and paintings in eastern cities. Gently colored sketches portray Martha Matilda as the dreamer she remains, to the very end of the book. Attractive in text and illustrations. Picture Book.

"The Cat and the Fiddler" by Jacky Jeter, pictures by Lionel Kalish. One morning a fiddler came to town, with his very special cat. When he would play his fiddle, the cat would dance, twirling and bobbing to the music. Of course all the townspeople came to watch and soon the king heard of this remarkable pair. First he tried to buy the cat, then he snatched the cat from its master. On command, the creature danced for the king, soon all the court were following him. Alas, they could not stop at will. The cat bewitched them into incessant dancing. Unusual drawings are done in pastels and show strength of movement. Many figures give an impression of large size. Picture Book.

"Donkey — Donkey" by Roger Duvoisin. For very young listeners, Roger Duvoisin, one of the best writers for children, has fashioned this simple tale. Donkey — Donkey wears his ears this way and that, trying to satisfy all his friends. This book is good for teaching children to identify barnyard animals. Picture Book.

"Funny Bags" by Petsy Pflug. Betsy Pflug suggests that with a brown paper bag, you can be a magician. You can change it into a dog, as a knight or dress your doll as a hula dancer. You can make puppets, totem poles, hats, masks. Good for the convalescent child, or for hurried Scout Leaders, this one has excellent ideas and presents them well. Grades 4-6.

"Alphabet of Puppy Care" by Lisl Weil. Planning to buy a puppy? Or do you already have one? In either case, Lisl Weil coats her knowledgeable advice on puppy care with clever cartoons. She includes important subjects such as grooming, obedience and eating habits. But most of all her book is designed to help youngsters appreciate their pets and to give them a sense of responsibility. Grades 4-6.

"AFL Dream Backfield" by Howard Liss. Howard Liss, who has written almost thirty books about sports, has chosen here his favorite AFL footballers. He backs up his selections with fascinating accounts of key games and records which are indisputable. Why, for instance, does he choose Len Dawson as quarterback on his dream team? After all, Joe Namath has broken several records and has shown leadership on the field. Records show that Namath has never won the passing championship of the AFL. Dawson won in 1962, 1964, 1965 and 1968. Other members of the Liss first string are Lance Alworth, Cookie Gilchrist, Abner Haynes. Second stringers are George Blanda, Don Maynard, Jim Nance and Paul Lowe. If you're not an avid football fan, it may take a few pages' reading before you catch on to the particular language of the game. But if you know football, you'll relish this book, agree and argue with the choices of Howard Liss. Boys and their dads can share this one. Grades 4-6.

Next week this column will be devoted to books purchased especially for teenagers.

Viet Police Arrest Assemblyman

SAIGON (AP) — After a wild melee with foreign and Vietnamese newsmen, national police tonight arrested a National Assembly member convicted of pro-Communist activity and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

The government in a surprise move agreed to a second trial for Assemblyman Tran Ngoc Chau, a 46-year-old foe of President Nguyen Van Thieu. Then several platoons of police surrounded the National Assembly building where Chau had been holed up for 80 hours while a military court tried and sentenced him in absentia.

About 50 newsmen were present, most of them jammed into the second-floor office where Chau had camped out.

At first, there was only minor scuffling as police made two uncertain efforts to clear the corridor. Several times they asked Chau and the newsmen to leave the room, but he refused, saying, "Only the House speaker can order a congressman around."

Then the police went into action.

"They're clearing the room, one by one. I can't hang on much longer," Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported by telephone, and then was cut off.

Police yanked the telephone. Arnett was using from the wall, and plainclothesmen kicked and pushed television crewmen and other newsmen.

"The police were kicking and shouting; it was a really wild scene," Arnett reported. Police dragged Chau from the building, threw him into a Jeep and drove swiftly off with him.

Chau had been tried and sentenced on Wednesday but the government waited more than 21 hours to arrest him. He was convicted of illegal contacts with an admitted Communist agent, his brother, who has been in prison since 1968. Chau said the contacts were of a "brotherly" nature and that the government was trying to muzzle anti-Communist opposition to Thieu.

The U.S. Embassy has made no public comment on the case, but American officials here are known to be deeply concerned about it. They fear Chau's imprisonment will increase anti-Communist opposition to Thieu's government.

Start Drug Education In 1st Grade

LAREDO, Tex (AP) — Convinced that today's glue sniffer may become tomorrow's narcotics addict, the Laredo school system will launch next month an antidrug program starting with the first grade.

Financed by a federal grant of $9,000, two dozen teachers spent months collecting information on the subject and drawing up classroom guide material.

"We had nothing to go by," Asst. School Supt. Vidal Trevino told an interviewer. "It's a completely new area."

Trevino agrees with a physician adviser to the project who says that by the time a child reaches junior-high-school age indoctrination in the dangers of drugs may come too late.

"The glue sniffers and the gasoline sniffers are already started," the physician said. "And that's where it all begins."

Trevino said no classes would be devoted entirely to drug hazards. Instead, the subject will be worked into present standard courses.

First, second and third graders will learn about the enticing bottles in the family medicine cabinet. Fourth through sixth grades will receive instruction on the dangers of glue and marijuana.

The emphasis then will turn to heroin, LSD, amphetamines, barbiturates and related drugs and, as one teacher put it, "whatever else is in vogue."

The pilot project begins with 5,300 pupils. Next fall it will include all of the school districts 17,000 youngsters.

Thieu and highly regarded as a province chief in the Mekong Delta, has charged that the U.S. government cooperated with Thieu and in effect betrayed him after he worked behind the scenes in an attempt to bring about a reconciliation of the Saigon regime and the Viet Cong.

CHANGES HER MIND — Mrs. George Romney, wife of the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, who said she would not run for the U.S. Senate in Michigan "unless I am drafted," wasn't drafted, so she announced her candidacy anyhow. The Democratic candidate is Sen. Philip Hart.

The purpose of the foundation is to distribute medical supplies and literature to the countries of the world, thus counteracting in a measure the communist propaganda against our country. He spoke of the work of the foundation and also showed slides depicting the Russian attempt to gain supremacy of the seas.

Stelios suggested letters to congressmen urging more appropriations for our own defense build up.

It was announced that the next meeting would be held at the Zion United Methodist Church. Ladies night would be observed at the sausage and pancake supper at the church.

Miss Janet Hunt of the Public Relations Staff of the Columbia Gas Company is to present the program.

Nixon Promises Governors To Fulfill Commitments

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors his administration will make good on past—as well as future—federal commitments in the drive to improve the American environment.

Th President also made a plea for support for his welfare reform and tax sharing proposals during a speech to the National Governors Conference Wednesday.

The governors were due on Capitol Hill today for a series of conferences with members of the House and Senate on current legislation. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was the scheduled speaker at today's windup business session.

Keynoting the three-day conference, Nixon said improvement of the environment is top priority business of his administration.

In environment and in other fields, Nixon said, states and governors have sometimes relied on federal promises that went unmet by federal money. That will not happen again, he pledged.

"We are not going to make promises in this field that we are not able to fund," Nixon said. He said he considers his $10 billion, five-year program for water pollution control adequate to the need. "If it is not adequate we will go back for more funds."

"We've made a commitment," he said.

Nixon promised reimbursement to states that already have spent funds under the 1966 Clean Water Act.

Violence Hits In Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP) — Three persons, including a candidate for Congress from the government's Revolutionary party, were putting up campaign posters Wednesday night when terrorists in two passing cars sprayed them with gunfire and killed them.

It was the second such shooting in as many days in advance of presidential and congressional elections Sunday.

Police said the dead candidate was Rodolfo Romero Ramirez. The other two victims were not immediately identified.

On Tuesday, terrorists shot and wounded Walfrido Orlando del Valle, 40, president of the election council, as he was riding in a car. The shots broke his glasses and hit his nose.

There have been numerous other acts of terrorism in recent weeks, and the government blames extremists of both the left and right. Observers say the goal of both factions is to disrupt the elections.

Namath Narrates Story Of Life

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, quarterback of the New York Jets professional football team, has agreed to act as narrator when the New York Philharmonic introduces next May a musical work based on his life.

The work was composed by Richard Hyman, with lyrics by Dick Schaap, Namath's ghost writer.

Namath's role will take about six minutes. The quarterback, who has gimp legs, remarked: "I'm sure it will turn out all right as long as my knees hold up."

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for standard Duster 2-Door Coupe—and standard Maverick 2-Door Sedan equipped with items listed. Price excludes dealer preparation charge, state and local taxes, destination charges and other optional equipment.

Duster has a bigger engine
Duster's standard 125 hp Six dusts off Maverick's standard engine by 20 big horses. Even beats Maverick's only optional engine by 5. And if you want performance, you can go all the way up to 340 cubic inches with Duster. No Maverick can match that.

Duster has a longer wheelbase
Duster's 108 inch wheelbase is a full 5 inches longer than Maverick's. In overall length, Duster has 9 more inches. Add Duster's extra 352 lbs., and the result is a smoother ride, and more stable handling.

Duster has a bigger trunk
A lot bigger trunk. 15 cubic feet for Duster, only 10.4 cubic feet for Maverick. Just because a car is small on the outside doesn't mean it has to be small on the inside.

Duster has a 5-year/50,000-mile power train warranty . . .
Maverick doesn't.

Duster has bigger brakes
Bigger brakes mean more stopping power, and Duster's got it. Effective brake lining area for Duster: 153.4 sq. inches. For Maverick: only 106.0 inches. And if you like disc brakes or power brakes, Duster offers those too. Maverick doesn't.

Duke Blue Devils Rated Dark Horse In Tourney

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Duke's Blue Devils would love to upset the Appalachian in next week's Atlantic Coast Conference championship basketball tournament at Charlotte against nationally ranked South Carolina, North Carolina and N.C. State.

The unranked Blue Devils stamped themselves as the tourney dark horse by upsetting the 14th-ranked N.C. State Wolfpack Wednesday night 71-69 on free throws by Don Blackman and Dick Devenzio in the last 30 seconds.

The Blue Devils did it on the road, too. Not only that, but they didn't collapse after blowing an 18-point lead at 35-17 and falling behind by four points midway in the second half.

Third-ranked St. Bonaventure turned back Canisius 91-68 at Olean and 19th-ranked North Carolina routed Virginia Tech 98-70 at Chapel Hill in other games involving teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty.

Bowling Green shaded Western Michigan 75-74 at home to keep alive its hopes of tying Ohio U. for the Mid-American Conference title.

Ohio U. whacked Chicago Loyola 93-70, Rhode Island downed Providence 81-74, Niagara took Syracuse 91-83, North Texas beat St. Louis 86-82, West Virginia got by Maryland 83-78 and Duquesne walloped Xavier of Ohio 105-63.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina closed out his home court career for the Tar Heels by tossing in 28 points and grabbing 13 rebounds against Virginia Tech. He received a standing ovation from the crowd in the closing minutes.

Big Bob Lanier led NCAA-bound St. Bonaventure to its eighth straight victory with 23 points against Canisius although he sat out most of the game because of foul trouble.

Niagara, also NCAA-bound, closed its home season by opening a 15-point lead and withstanding a Syracuse rally. Calvin Murphy of Niagara fouled out with about two minutes left.

after scoring 24 points. Jim Penix's two free throws with nine seconds to play gave Bowling Green a 75-72 lead and offset Leroy Dixon's basket for Western Michigan as the buzzer sounded.

John Fultz scored 26 points

for Rhode Island as the Rams beat Providence twice in the same season for the first time in 13 years.

at Allentown, Pa.

Louisville warmed up for its crucial MVC game with Drake Saturday by crushing Georgetown, Ky. 107-85 behind Mike Grosse's career high of 33 points.

Maravich Leads Tigers Into Action At New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Maravich, the All-American and all-time college basketball scoring leader, will finally get a chance to show off his droopy socks and acrobatic antics in Madison Square Garden.

The 6-foot-5 guard who has scored over 3,400 points in his three-year career and is currently hitting at a 47 per game clip, will lead his Louisiana State teammates into the 33rd annual National Invitation Tournament.

The NIT selection committee chose the Tigers, Southeastern Conference runners-up, along with Marquette, Georgia Tech and St. John's, N.Y., Wednesday with a dozen spots still to be filled for the post season tourney that opens March 13.

Manhattan, Georgetown, D.C., Army, Duquesne and runners-up from assorted undecided conference races are other teams expected to be named. More selections are expected today.

Maravich, who is famous for his behind-the-back passes and socks which drop around his ankles when he plays, has helped LSU, coached by his father

Press, to a 17-8 record with three games remaining.

Marquette, ranked eighth by The Associated Press, is led by junior guard Dean Meminger. The 19-3 Warriors spurned an NCAA at-large bid Tuesday because of a playing site dispute, virtually assuring them of the NIT spot. Marquette, participating in its fourth NIT, lost the 1967 final to Southern Illinois.

Georgia Tech, 16-8, will be making only its second tourney appearance ever. The Engineers played in the NCAA tour-

Rich Yuncus, 6-9 center, the 10th leading scorer in the nation with a 29.2 average, heads the Georgia Tech cast.

St. John's, 16-7, has gone to the NCAA the last three years but this will be the Redmen's 19th appearance here, having won four championships, the last in 1965.

The Redmen have a balanced scoring attack and tough defense. Joe DePre and 6-11 Bill Paulz are St. John's leading point-makers.

Handful Of Obscure Golfers To Make Bid At Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — While the mass attention centered on the big names of the game today in the first round of the $150,000 Doral Open golf tournament, a handful of young men set out in dreary isolation attempting to write an end to their obscurity.

If recent history is any standard, the time may be ripe.

Four of the five winners on the Florida tour last year were scoring their first professional victory. And a number of young players are knocking on the door right now, ready to move in at any time.

Among them are Grier Jones, John Miller, Bert Greene and Hale Irwin.

Many of the established players say that quartet could include the next big winner on the tour, with Jones and Miller the top candidates.

All have had their day in the limelight, but none has yet broken through to a victory.

Jones won rookie of the year honors last season with earnings of more than $30,000. Miller owns the low round of the year, 61, and first caught the public fancy as a 17-year-old amateur in the 1966 U.S. Open.

Irwin lost in a playoff to Billy Casper for the title in the Los Angeles Open. Greene finished second by a stroke in the rich Westchester Classic last year and won last week's Lo Lagartos Open, an unofficial event.

Jones, a powerful, slope-shouldered 23-year-old from Kansas, generally is regarded as the most promising of the group.

"There's so much to learn out here," he said. "You just keep trying."

Miller, a lanky, blond 22-year-old, said the second season is easier than the first.

"I got out of the players school in the middle of the year last year and felt I had to catch up," he said. "This year, you have the feeling you're starting even with everyone."

Alcindor Leads Bucks Over Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lew Alcindor did the Baltimore Bullets in twice.

The big rookie sank a foul shot with 14 seconds left in Milwaukee's 115-113 National Basketball Association victory over Baltimore Wednesday night and also cost the injury-plagued Bullets the services of guard Kevin Loughery.

The victory moved Milwaukee to within six games of idle, first-place New York in the Eastern Division and increased the Bucks' lead to 5½ games over third-place Baltimore.

Loughery was sent to the hospital for X-rays after he caught one of Alcindor's knees in the chest. According to a preliminary report, he may have suffered a fractured rib. Because of injuries, the Bullets dressed only eight players for the game.

Boston crushed San Diego 147-124. Philadelphia topped Detroit 122-105. Chicago whipped San Francisco 122-104 and Seattle downed Atlanta 120-112 in other NBA action.

Trailing 91-75 late in the third quarter, Milwaukee fought to within 111-110 before going ahead on baskets by Flynn Robinson and Greg Smith. Baltimore's Earl Monroe then hit a field goal before Alcindor's free throw. Monroe missed a 15-foot jumper at the buzzer.

Alcindor scored 27 points and Monroe 25.

Dizzy Dean Denies Part In Gambling

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)— Jerome "Dizzy" Dean says he "never received one dime" from an interstate betting operation which resulted in his being named by a federal grand jury.

Dean, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, was cited as a co-conspirator but not charged as a defendant in an indictment returned in Detroit which accused 10 men of violating federal law in nationwide sports gambling.

Sports Board Eyes 3-Class Grid Playoffs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio High School Athletic Association Board of Control will decide at its next meeting in March whether to sanction three-class state football playoffs.

Ohio football coaches officers presented a plan for Class AAA, AA and A semifinal and final playoffs to the board Wednesday. Football is the only sport in Ohio which does not have a post-season tournament.

"There can't be too many legitimate complaints against this plan," Commissioner Harold Meyer told coaches President Bill Shunkwiler of Warren Harding High School.

The coaches proposed the state be divided into four regions for each class. Member schools of each region would vote their No. 1 team after the ninth game of the regular season.

The top teams in each region would meet in northern and southern playoffs in the semifinals the first weekend after regular season games are completed. The winners would clash the following weekend for the three class crowns.

"We think our sport deserves to have a state playoff championship, too," coaches First Vice President Abe Bryan of Steubenville High School said. "Besides, it would bring the OHSAA more revenue."

Only mythical poll champions are decided now. The Associated Press conducts ratings among a state-wide board of sports writers and broadcasters to decide its Class AA and A football kings.

The board approved—at least for one year—a three-day State Basketball Tournament in Ohio State's St. John Arena when the three-class system goes into effect in the 1970-71 school year.

The state event will start Thursday night with the Class A semifinals, followed by the Class AAA semis Friday and the Class AA semis Friday night. All three title games will be played Saturday.

The board ruled Alexander of Athens County out of the Class A Rio Grande Sectional Basketball Tournament after Alexander used two ineligible freshmen players in a victory over Eastern of Meigs County last weekend.

The two freshmen had played in 19 regular season varsity, freshmen and reserve games, one over the limit. Eastern was reinstated in the tournament.

Still not signed are outfielder and National League batting champion Pete Rose, third baseman Tony Perez, second baseman Tommy Helms, outfielder Bobby Tolán, infielder Dave Concepcion and pitchers Jim Maloney and Camilo Pascual.

Pitcher Jim McGlothlin was off today with a pulled muscle in his left hip. Jim Merritt, 17-9 for the best Reds record in 1969, is still nursing a broken right elbow leaving two starters out of action temporarily.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Beulah Park will have five days of quarter horse racing Oct. 27-31 with pari-mutuel betting, the Ohio State Racing Commission ruled Wednesday.

The dates were granted to the Ohio Quarter Horse Racing Association to coincide with the annual All-American Quarter Horse Congress here.

Mike Adamle of Northwestern turned in the best single game rushing effort of the 1969 Big Ten season. He rushed 316 yards on 40 carries against Wisconsin.

Larry Zelina of Ohio State returned a punt 76 yards for a touchdown against Michigan State last fall. It was the longest such return in the Big Ten for 1969.

Indians No Longer Planning Trades

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Manager Alvin Dark of the Cleveland Indians says he no longer is trying to trade either first baseman Tony Horton or left fielder Ken Harrelson.

Cincinnati Reds Set Broadcast Dates

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds announced today that 19 pre-season baseball games, one more than last year, will be aired on radio station WLW, 700, and other stations on the Reds radio network beginning March 7.

The Reds will meet the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota, Fla., in the first game. The following Saturday the Reds play St. Louis and the New York Mets the following day.

All remaining games starting March 21 will be broadcast. Former Reds pitcher Joe Nuxall and Jim McIntyre will be the broadcasters.

Zane Trace Tops Adena, 77-32

Standing room only was the rule as Zane Trace ripped Adena, 77-32, in the semi-final round of the Class A Sectional Tournament at Chillicothe Wednesday night.

Playing before a packed house, ticket lines had formed two hours before the doors opened, the Pioneers showed the fans why they were picked top team in the state.

The first quarter was fairly even as the Warriors and the Pioneers went after each other and the stanza closed with Trace holding an 18-13 advantage.

Zane Trace opened the flood gates in the second stanza scoring 28 markers while limiting Adena to a meager five. The third stanza was more of the same with the Warriors getting six points and the Pioneers put 20 more on the books to take a 66-24 lead at the start of the fourth quarter.

The fourth period was played at a slower pace and at the final buzzer the scoreboard read 77-32 with Zane Trace on the big end of the total.

JEFF Reisinger, Trace's Mr. Everything, again paced the Pioneers with 22-points. Dave Hammond was close behind with 21-markers for Trace, Chip Maxwell added 12, Dick Damron had eight, Tom Davis six, Brad Kerns four, Joe Park two and Marlin Valentine had two.

Chuck Sowers was the only member of the Warrior squad to hit the double figures totaling 13-points in the losing effort.

Rebounding honors went to the Pioneers pulling down 34-misses while the Warriors managed to grab only 16. Reisinger garnered 12-rebs and Hammond and Maxwell picked off six and five respectively. Sowers led Adena grabbing four.

Adena committed 26 turnovers in the fray, mostly due to the Pioneers pressing defense, and Zane Trace misplayed the ball on 10 occasions.

Trace will see action in the final round at 7:30 p.m. meeting the winner of the Paint Valley - Bishop Flaget victory.

Stephen F. Austin Keeps Lead In Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Lumberjacks of Stephen F. Austin remained unbeaten and No. 1 in The Associated Press weekly small college poll today, but Cheyney State is closing in on the Texans.

While Stephen F. Austin picked up nine first and 236 total points from sports writers and sportscasters from around the nation, Cheyney State College of Pennsylvania did it without any first-place votes, garnering 188 points.

Austin improved its record to 24-0 with two victories last week while the Wolves, No. 3 last week, avenged their only loss of the season, walloping Kutztown 140-83, improving their season record to 22-1 and replacing Ashland in the No. 2 spot.

Ashland, 21-2, split last week, getting knocked off by West Virginia Tech 42-37 and falling to the sixth spot.

Maryland State, 20-0, Howard Payne, 24-3, and Youngstown, 21-2, each moved up one place apiece to the 3-4-5 spots, respectively.

Central Washington, 23-1, also jumped one place to seventh while Kentucky State, 20-2, made the biggest jump, from 17th to No. 8. St. Mary's of Texas, 17-3, was No. 9 up one, reversing places with South Dakota State, 18-3.

BG - Ohio U Clash Set Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"Saturday's the big one," Bowling Green basketball Coach Bob Conibear said, looking ahead to a Mid-American Conference title match with Ohio University.

The Falcons won a chance to grab a share of the MAC title by edging Western Michigan 75-74 in a cliffhanger Wednesday night.

The win gave Bowling Green a 7-2 league mark. Ohio U., with an 8-1 record, already is assured of at least a tie for the conference crown.

Conibear said the Bobcats will have an advantage by playing on their home court Saturday.

But he noted that the only game Ohio has lost in Athens the past two seasons was to Bowling Green last year.

Wednesday night's game was won at the foul line, with the Falcons cashing in on several one-and-one free throw situations in the final minutes.

Jim Penix sank four free throws in the last minute and nine seconds of play, the last one providing the winning margin.

Penix and Dan McLemore paced the Falcons with 21 points apiece. Joel Voelker led the Broncos with 18.

Venturing outside the MAC, Ohio University whipped Loyola

of Chicago 93-70 Wednesday night and Kent State fell to Marshall, 93-70.

The Bobcat-Loyola game was close until Ohio ended the first half with 12 straight points and started the second period with nine in a row to take a commanding lead. Ken Kowell led the Bobcats with 23 points and Walt Robertson paced Loyola with 19.

Marshall grabbed a seven-point halftime advantage and beat back a late Kent State rally to post its eighth win in 22 outings. Russell Lee of the Thundering Herd and Kent's Bruce Burden shared scoring honors with 21 points apiece.

Duquesne, hoping for a National Invitational Tournament berth, walloped smaller Xavier 105-63. At one stage, the Ducks netted 21 straight points. Jarrett Durham led the winners with 25 points while Xavier was paced by Rich Reder with 14.

John Duncan netted 22 points and collected 23 rebounds as Kentucky Wesleyan humiliated Akron 88-53. Akron was led by Leonard Paul with 19.

Rio Grande closed out its regular season by outscoring Urbana 120-108. Bob Mabry of Rio finished the season with a career total of 2,218 rebounds, an NAIA record.

Blood Donor Legislation Discussed

Of vital importance to the Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Program is passage of legislation to remove the requirement of parental or guardian consent to persons over 18 years old to donate blood.

The legislation was introduced into the 108th General Assembly regular session as Senate Bill 453. Pickaway County Red Cross Board of Directors were advised of the proposed legislation Wednesday night during the regular monthly meeting at the chapter house.

Dean Dugger, administrative director of Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center suggested to board members that a letter to our state representative asking support of the bill would be instrumental in the bill's passage.

A letter to the local chapter from Rep. Myrl Shomaker stated the necessity of this legislation which he supports and will urge support of by the Assembly.

Persons 18 years of age may donate blood only with parental or guardian consent according to the current state law. Consent is needed until the person reaches majority. The proposed new law would permit persons 18 and over to give voluntarily, without consent.

Mrs. Rolif Wolford, Red Cross executive secretary reported service to 42 military families from Jan. 28-Feb. 25. Services concerned health and welfare, requests for leave or extension of leave, miscellaneous requests and counseling, one birth message and loans totalling $185.63.

Much discussion at the Wednesday meeting centered around locating funds for emergency use when granting services. The present minor allocation being inadequate, board members agreed on a sum of $450 to be set aside and maintained at that level in an emergency use fund.

Chapter Chairman Howard Judd advised board members that Pickaway County Community Fund will begin a budget review of fund-affiliated agencies April 1. He stated that any program presented must be also prepared to justify requests.

Members were reminded of the upcoming Bloodmobile visit March 12, in Circleville. "It has been two months since the last visit," Mrs. Wolford said. "All persons will be eligible to donate blood at the March visit."

and Viet Cong in South Vietnam as of last fall.

Wheeler estimated the enemy lost about 157,000 men killed last year while another 47,000 plus defected.

"There is little evidence now of any significant increase in introduction of personnel into the pipeline," Wheeler said.

He informed Senate committees that about 100,000 North Vietnamese infiltrated south in 1969, suggesting a deficit, although the absence of figures on Viet Cong recruitment makes it impossible to judge how big a deficit.

Wheeler said while enemy over-all strength has declined over the past 13 months, the number of enemy combat and support battalions increased.

This, Wheeler said, reflects "the enemy's determination to improve his force structure in a manner which enhances his capability for conducting small unit attacks."

Both Laird and Wheeler say they anticipate some sort of upswing in enemy offensive activity.

He implied the attacks will be spotty, occurring in the different regions as enemy units reach "their required state of readiness."

Seven Cases On Juvenile Court Docket

Two boys, 11 and 12 years of age, were taken from their mother's custody and placed in the temporary care of the Pickaway County Child Welfare Board. Earlier two other children of that family had been placed in the county's care when both parents were found guilty of child neglect.

A 19-year-old Worthington boy was found guilty of illegal soliciting by Judge Guy Cline. The company for which he was working had previously been advised on the soliciting ordinance. The youth's $5 fine was suspended.

Ivan Eugene Knapp, 19, of New Holland, was before the court on charges of contributing to the delinquency of three minors. He was given three years' probation.

In traffic cases, Carl Winfield, 17, Clarksburg, had his driving privileges suspended until he can furnish proof of liability insurance. He was cited by the sheriff's department for parking on the highway.

An unsafe vehicle resulted in a license suspension for a 17-year-old Circleville youth, John W. Dean, 136 Pinckney St., lost his license for six weeks on the citation.

David A. Mogan, 17, of 350 Edward Road, appeared on two traffic violations. He was arrested by the local highway patrol for speeding and by Fayette County officers for failure to stop for a red light. His license was restricted until April 13 for driving to school and work. He was also fined $15.

Speeding brought a three week license suspension for Raymond D. Bass, 17, of 527 S. Scioto St. He was cited by the local police.

But, apart from an added drain on their manpower resources for fighting and holding and for occupying, this would present the North Vietnamese, racially different from the Lao, as a conquering army of occupation. Thus, the renewed offensive, which comes with every dry season in Laos, has the look of a campaign keyed to political goals, whose success might have a heavy impact on the course of events in South Vietnam.

Blood Donor Legislation Discussed

Of vital importance to the Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Program is passage of legislation to remove the requirement of parental or guardian consent to persons over 18 years old to donate blood.

The legislation was introduced into the 108th General Assembly regular session as Senate Bill 455. Pickaway County Red Cross Board of Directors were advised of the proposed legislation Wednesday night during the regular monthly meeting at the chapter house.

Dean Dugger, administrative director of Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center suggested to board members that a letter to our state representative asking support of the bill would be instrumental in the bill's passage.

A letter to the local chapter from Rep. Myrl Shomaker stated the necessity of this legislation which he supports and will urge support of by the Assembly.

Persons 18 years of age may donate blood only with parental or guardian consent according to the current state law. Consent is needed until the person reaches majority. The proposed new law would permit persons 18 and over to give voluntarily, without consent.

Mrs. Rolin Wolford, Red Cross executive secretary reported service to 42 military families from Jan. 28-Feb. 25. Services concerned health and welfare, requests for leave or extension of leave, miscellaneous requests and counseling, one birth message and loans totalling $185.63.

Much discussion at the Wednesday meeting centered around locating funds for emergency use when granting services. The present minor allocation being inadequate, board members agreed on a sum of $450 to be set aside and maintained at that level in an emergency use fund.

Chapter Chairman Howard Judd advised board members that Pickaway County Community Fund will begin a budget review of fund-affiliated agencies April 1. He stated that any program presented must be also prepared to justify requests.

Members were reminded of the upcoming Bloodmobile visit March 12, in Circleville. "It has been two months since the last visit," Mrs. Wolford said. "All persons will be eligible to donate blood at the March visit."

Pickaway County's quota is 125 pints.

County in the 1970 Easter Seal Parade of Teen Queens at the kick-off will be Brenda Reid, Westfall senior.

Other memberships include Star Grange, Junior Fair board, Jackson Livestock 4-H Club, and football homecoming queen court.

She is a member of Scioto Chapel United Methodist Church.

In addition to the county Teen Queen representative, Johnny Sheekherd, Pickaway County's Easter Seal Child, together with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheekherd, Commercial Point, will be present at the meeting.

Johnny, along with other Easter Seal children, will view a special showing of "101 Dalmatians."

Among the special guests present for the annual meeting will be Bob Evans of Ohio sausage fame who serves as 1970 Ohio Easter Seal Chairman; Little Lori Brown, National Easter Seal Child; and Herbert Evans, 1969 Easter Seal chairman.

A special press motorcade will meet star Robert Young on arrival at Port Columbus prior to the luncheon program highlighted by the "Up With People" Sing-Out group from Hilliards.

Pickaway County will also be represented by Richard Plum, campaign chairman; Mrs. Elliott Mason, society president; Mrs. A. W. Goeller, Mrs. Cressie Hall, Mrs. Irene Ingles, Mrs. Daisy Welch, Mrs. Blanche Kerns, Mrs. Eugene Siniff, Mrs. Richard Warren, Mrs. Forest Schlegler, Mrs. D. E. and Viet Cong in South Vietnam as of last fall.

Wheeler estimated the enemy lost about 157,000 men killed last year while another 47,000 plus defected.

"There is little evidence now of any significant increase in introduction of personnel into the pipeline," Wheeler said.

He informed Senate committees that about 100,000 North Vietnamese infiltrated south in 1969, suggesting a deficit, although the absence of figures on Viet Cong recruitment makes it impossible to judge how big a deficit.

Wheeler said while enemy over-all strength has declined over the past 13 months, the number of enemy combat and support battalions increased.

This, Wheeler said, reflects "the enemy's determination to improve his force structure in a manner which enhances his capability for conducting small unit attacks."

Both Laird and Wheeler say they anticipate some sort of upswing in enemy offensive activity.

He implied the attacks will be spotty, occurring in the different regions as enemy units reach "their required state of readiness."

Seven Cases On Juvenile Court Docket

Two boys, 11 and 12 years of age, were taken from their mother's custody and placed in the temporary care of the Pickaway County Child Welfare Board. Earlier two other children of that family had been placed in the county's care when both parents were found guilty of child neglect.

A 19-year-old Worthington boy was found guilty of illegal soliciting by Judge Guy Cline. The company for which he was working had previously been advised on the soliciting ordinance. The youth's $5 fine was suspended.

Ivan Eugene Knapp, 19, of New Holland, was before the court on charges of contributing to the delinquency of three minors. He was given three years' probation.

In traffic cases, Carl Winfield, 17, Clarksburg, had his driving privileges suspended until he can furnish proof of liability insurance. He was cited by the sheriff's department for parking on the highway.

An unsafe vehicle resulted in a license suspension for a 17-year-old Circleville youth, John W. Dean, 136 Pinckney St., lost his license for six weeks on the citation.

David A. Mogan, 17, of 350 Edward Road, appeared on two traffic violations. He was arrested by the local highway patrol for speeding and by Fayette County officers for failure to stop for a red light. His license was restricted until April 13 for driving to school and work. He was also fined $15.

Speeding brought a three week license suspension for Raymond D. Bass, 17, of 527 S. Scioto St. He was cited by the local police.

But, apart from an added drain on their manpower resources for fighting and holding and for occupying, this would present the North Vietnamese, racially different from the Lao, as a conquering army of occupation. Thus, the renewed offensive, which comes with every dry season in Laos, has the look of a campaign keyed to political goals, whose success might have a heavy impact on the course of events in South Vietnam.
